

YULE CHEER PROVIDED FOR NEEDY

END OF YOUNG PLAN SEEN BY WORLD BANKERS

Advisory Group Upholds Germany's Contention She Cannot Make Payments

Washington — (AP) — Slight prospect that the United States would approve reduction or cancellation of war debts owed this country was held out today by the Republican and Democratic house leaders.

Referring to suggestions for further debt revision, Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader, said the American people were opposed to this action.

Basel, Switzerland — (AP) — The Young plan advisory committee report upholding Germany's contention that she cannot pay conditional reparations at the expiration of the Hoover moratorium is regarded by bankers here as the beginning of the end of the Young plan.

Those who have studied the document regard it as a carefully balanced statement of the German situation in the light of the world depression, and as remaining within the framework of the Young plan as France demanded, but at the same time they believe it sounds the death knell of the plan itself.

The French victory, if such it was, came in omissions—in the shifting of the whole reparations problem to the international conference tentatively scheduled for next month, and in the achievement of the French delegation in forcing their colleagues on the committee to confine themselves strictly to the letter of the Young plan.

Germany's vindication received complete vindication in their contention that they no longer can make conditional payments, it is agreed.

The full text of the report, signed late yesterday after two and a half weeks of hard work, was to be published about 6 o'clock p. m. (noon E. S. T.) in four languages. The English text has been completed but it will have to wait until the others are finished. Summaries were issued by several delegations yesterday and they compared well with the text, but today it appeared that there were differences in interpretations of the meaning of the report.

The French resume devoted to the first two chapters of the document emphasized the enormous increase of expenditures by the German state and national governments but gave little space to the committee's conclusions. The Anglo-American and German resumes were almost identical. The German summary contained the statement that the experts had found that of the 13 billion marks Germany borrowed in the past two years, 13 billion three hundred million marks were paid for reparations. Both the Anglo-American and French resumes omitted this point.

Signed and sealed with due formality the report was handed to the world bank today and copies were transmitted to Germany's creditors.

Call For Adjustment
In its report late last night the committee of experts also called for an adjustment of all reparations and other war debts "to the troubled situation of the world."

This, it said, must be done without delay if new disasters are to be avoided and it described such action as the "only lasting step capable of reestablishing confidence" and as "the very condition of economic stability."

Germany, the committee decided, is taxed to the utmost and no margin is left for increased taxes. She is as likely to recover from the present depression as are other nations, it said, but the German problem, "which is largely responsible for the growing paralysis of the world," calls for concentrated action which only the governments can take.

The problem, the committee decided, is without a parallel in time of peace and action is most urgently

Christmas Message Given To Cardinals By Pontiff

Pope Pius Describes Church Joys and Sorrows During Past Year

Vatican City — (AP) — Pope Pius received a score of cardinals at noon today and through them sent a Christmas message to the Catholic world.

He refused to discuss or advise on disarmament and peace because he said he and other popes "had never been needed" in the past on that subject and often their words had "become a cause of discord."

He announced he would issue an encyclical on the 15th Century Council of Ephesus and told of his sorrows and joys in reviewing the work of the church for the past year.

He spoke particularly of the partial collapse of the Vatican library on Tuesday and asked the cardinals to remember the five victims in their masses tomorrow.

"Books can be replaced but they cannot," he said. He expressed sorrow for the bereaved families and remarked that "the buildings were old and were built in a hurry."

Among the sorrows of the church, the pontiff mentioned the church's difficulties in Russia, Mexico and Spain and said he was pleased to present Cardinal Segura Y Saenz, who was expelled from the latter country.

In Mexico, he said, "the struggle against the church is still going on sharp. However, recently the situation has been relieved by the smile of many in the Guadalupe celebration."

The move against Catholic action by the Fascists, state last summer, he said, as one of those "great sorrows that bring great pleasures, for the principles of justice, equity and peace" were established and all was right with the organization.

The pontiff said the world economic crisis had brought pain and misery to many and caused much unemployment. He had done what he could to help the jobless, he said, and had found work for more than $600 in the Vatican, although all were not needed.

He regretted "that statesmen do not think of the hand of God and do not turn to God. He referred to 'thanksgiving, however, and said 'it is true that in America it has been remembered to thank God for past benefits and also to thank Him that in America troubles are not so grave as in other countries.'"

When he pleaded guilty, Judge Schein said: "The sentence you get over 15 years will depend upon the impression you make on me. So far, it hasn't impressed me favorably. Understand me, I'm not offering you leniency, but I can give you from 15 to 40 years."

Schein's attorney, O. A. Stolen, turned down as a fee $25 in nickels and dimes Schein proffered him. The money was part of the loot.

"Stolen money," he said, "can't be Stolen's money. Guess my services to Schein are a Christmas present to him."

FIGURES CITED BY TREASURY ON PROPOSAL

Incomes of $5,000 and Less Would Pay 27 Million of Increase

Washington — (AP) — The administration struck back today at criticisms that its tax increase plan mainly affects individuals with small means.

The treasury said persons with incomes of $5,000 and less would contribute only $27,000,000 of the proposed increase of $222,000,000 which came from the added income tax.

The treasury said persons with incomes of $10,000 and more contribute $182,000,000 additional.

The administration believes it is out of the question to obtain from taxation of larger incomes anything approaching the total amount of additional revenue needed. The number of incomes of $100,000 and over fell from 16,000 in 1923 to 6,200 in 1930, and the tax on such incomes dropped from $100,000,000 to less than $240,000,000.

The formal statement, issued at the treasury, also was intended to clarify the administration position in asking congress for more revenue in face of a deficit now at $1,353,567,109.

Surplus Last Year
A year ago today income tax receipts had swung a deficit to a $66,335,000 surplus, but the fiscal year end on July first saw a deficit of $903,000,000. Prospects are for this figure to be more than doubled this fiscal year.

Shrinkage in individual and corporate income has brought about the need for additional revenue, and the shrinkage in the amount of income available for tax cannot be made good by increasing the rates of tax.

At present, it was pointed out, normal and surtax rates on incomes of $45,000 are 17 per cent, while under the proposed rate the maximum would be 22 per cent.

Under present law, the maximum rate on income of $100,000 is 24 per cent while under the proposed law it will be 42 per cent.

Under the proposals a married man with one dependent with an income of $5,000 would be asked to pay $31.50 and one with an income of $19,000 would pay $153.

Under a guard of honor stood Clarence West, 32, who was arrested after driving car down Alton-st Driveway.

Without Clarence West, Ironwood, Mich., can raise $50 and costs he will spend Christmas day in county jail, the guest of Sheriff John Lepore.

West pleaded guilty of drunken driving when arraigned before Judge F. V. Heinemann in municipal court this morning.

West was arrested Thursday morning by Officer Carl Radtke near Alton-st. West had driven his car into a ditch and almost off the hill onto Johnst. When the officer arrived the man had fled but was picked up walking near N. Rankin-st. and E. Alton-st. He admitted he was driver of the car. Two bottles of liquor were found in the car and one on his person.

When brought before Judge Fred V. Heinemann, West was prosecuted under the city ordinance because he is a resident of Michigan and his driver's license cannot be revoked.

BOARD REPLIES TO CRITICS IN TAX DISPUTE

State Commission Denies Negligence in Determining Milwaukee Refund

Madison — (AP) — The state tax commission took objection today to editorial criticism in Milwaukee and other parts of the state which the commission said created the impression it had been negligent in determining the amount of Milwaukee's refund from the gasoline taxes.

"Milwaukee city officials are extolled for their vigilance in discovering that the tax commission had neglected to include in the refund automobiles assessed as 'merchant stock,'" a statement by the commission said.

"The facts are these. On Aug. 7, 1930, the city of Milwaukee under the certificate of its tax commissioner filed with the commission, as required by law, its 1930 statement of assessment, including 'automobiles and motor trucks' of $25,214,155, and 'motorcycles' of $26,500. On Oct. 17, 1930, the tax commissioner in Milwaukee corrected the statement to read: 'Automobiles and motor trucks' $23,218,469 and 'motorcycles' $37,450."

On the basis of the corrected figures the Wisconsin commission on Oct. 27, 1931 made its computation of the amount of the highway privilege tax due the city of Milwaukee on Feb. 1, 1932. The commission assumed, as it had the right and as it did assume in reference to the report of every municipality, that such report correctly stated the valuation of motor vehicles in the city.

On or about Dec. 5, 1931, the deputy controller of the city of Milwaukee called at the office of the tax commission and stated that the 1931 assessment as corrected and certified to by the city officials was in error and that certain automobiles and motor trucks assessments for 1930 had not been reported on the statement as such, due to improper classification of assessments in the report. The commission accordingly stated that if a proper statement of the valuations of the motor vehicles of Milwaukee showing the extent of such error, it would send a representative to Milwaukee to verify the claim as stated, and representative of the commission in Milwaukee now verifying the statement of unreported motor vehicle assessments.

"While we have no criticism to offer of local officials taking any credit if they are entitled to for vigilance in behalf of their governments, we do not wish the attempt to have commendable action or corrected false impressions of negligence by the commission when, in truth, and in fact, the negligence was on the part of local officials in failing to observe proper methods of checking up on making assessments."

ATTORNEY SUGGESTS "TRUTH SERUM" TEST
Milwaukee — (AP) — An extraordinary test for "truth serum," substance which some believe detects a lie scientifically, is proposed by Vincent C. Zabel, Milwaukee attorney.

Zabel suggests that his defense and complaint in a criminal action in LaFayette-co be subjected to the test. Zabel will be a special prosecutor in the action.

Paul B. Conley, former district attorney of LaFayette-co, will be tried on charges of assault with a knife on Frank H. Hendrickson, owner of a Darlington pool hall. He is accused of having fired a pistol at Hendrickson.

BULLETINS
Bloomsburg, Pa. — (AP) — Mrs. Ethel DePew, wanted in Kansas City for the kidnaping last week of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, wealthy manufacturer, was arrested today when she arrived at the home of her sister here.

Capetown, Union of South Africa — (AP) — Twelve persons were killed today when the walls of a building in course of demolition collapsed, burying a small store crowded with Christmas shoppers.

Gunmen Force Farmers To Show Hiding Place Of Bonds
Port Washington — (AP) — Three gunmen who terrorized Rudolph Knickelbein, 55, and his twin brother, Herman, until the former revealed the hiding place of $2,000 worth of bonds, were sought today by Ozark-co authorities.

The robbers gained entrance to the brothers' log cabin farm home by the back door and, after the seven miles west of here by posing as cattle buyers. Two men visited the farm Monday and returned again yesterday with a companion to close a deal.

After the men looked over the Knickelbein herd, the brothers invited the trio into the house. A bottle of liquor was being passed around when suddenly the visitors produced revolvers.

"We want the $5,000 we know you've got buried here," said the leader.

NORTH FOND DU LAC HOTEL BURNS AFTER LIGHTNING HITS IT

Fond du Lac — (AP) — The day before Christmas lightning flashed and thunder crashed in the area about Fond du Lac.

At the corner of the fresh storm a bolt of lightning struck the Hotel North Fond du Lac, and the 22 room frame structure was burned to the ground. Loss is estimated at $12,000.

After a period of disuse the hotel had been renovated and it was to have been opened next week. A large stock of groceries stored in the building was destroyed.

The Hotel, owned by Robert Hall, formerly was the Hirtle house. Railroad men made it their headquarters.

Tug Reaches Safety After Plea For Aid

Port Angeles, Wash. — (AP) — While the United States and Canadian patrol boats searched heaving seas off Cape Flattery for her, the tug Roosevelt escaped the fury of a storm and reached shelter in Neah bay safely today. Nothing had been heard from her since she messaged "for God's sake hurry," last night.

Neah bay coast guardsmen messaged that the Roosevelt, Admiral Robert E. Peary's North pole discovery ship, with 11 Seattle men aboard came into the shelter at 4:20 a. m.

The historic ship, which arrived at the cape yesterday to take in tow the schooner Vigilant, lost in a sailing ship race from Hawaii, voluntarily went to sea to aid the winner of the contest, the schooner Commodore.

The Commodore was hoisted in the raging gale after breaking loose from her own tug, the Goliath. After making fast to the Roosevelt, the Commodore again broke away and was carried out to sea by the northeast gale. The sturdy little Roosevelt pursued her. The Commodore rode out the storm.

218 AUTO FATALITIES IN MILWAUKEE COUNTY
Milwaukee — (AP) — A total of 218 automobile accidents resulted in Milwaukee during 1931 are listed in Coroner Henry Grunwald's annual report released today.

The report shows 192 died in auto accidents and 24 in 1930. While 20 persons were killed in 1931, 21 were killed in 1930, a decrease of 21 per cent.

One hundred seventy three were killed, 22 homicides, and 123 deaths due to falls were listed in the report.

WHITE CHRISTMAS IN PARTS OF STATE
Other Portions to Have Slush — Temperatures to Be Mild, Forecast

By The Associated Press
A White Christmas will be a "happy" Christmas, according to the weather bureau.

Some favored sections of the state will have the white Christmas of tradition. For more it will be a happy Christmas, if restorers soil. The weather will be mild, although a few snow flurries will fall below the freezing point in central and northern counties.

Rain early today turned into a heavy snow in Madison. LaCrosse reported a snow early in the day which stopped by mid-afternoon. There was a moderate fall at Mauston, and throughout the north there was a fall.

Gas Kills 2 In Dwelling At Marinette

Marinette — (AP) — Creeping up in a basement illuminating gas killed George Dumville, 75, retired lumber jobber, and his son, Walter, 47, as they slept in their home here.

The bodies were found last night when Mrs. Walter Dumville returned after a two week absence. It was believed the men died Tuesday night.

A wave of gas forced Mrs. Dumville from the house. She summoned the fire department. Among those who entered the house was Capt. Fred Hultell, who was so severely affected by the gas that he was taken to a hospital.

The body of the older Dumville was found in a hall at the door of his son's bed room. The younger man was dead on the floor beside his bed. Authorities believe the father dozed off the gas and that he collapsed while going to warn his son.

The gas seeped into the house from a partially opened valve in the basement. The gas meter had been taken from the home about two weeks ago. Authorities said that gas apparently had been used since the meter was removed. Because the partially opened valve was a hose, a pair of pliers and a wooden plug.

4 VIGILANTES QUIT IN TIF ON REWARDS

Dunn-co Bankers Refuse to Post Additional $1,000 in Bank Robbery Case

Menominee — (AP) — Resignations of four Dunn-co vigilantes, who last week charged the county bankers' association with posting "unfair and untruthful" reward notices, became effective today upon failure of the bankers to pay them $1,000 additional reward money in connection with the Kraft State bank hold-up.

Elmer Grout, Winifred Kern, Louis Patterson and Robert Cargen, who shared in the $1,000 reward of the bankers, yesterday resigned. The association paid as the result of the deaths of two Kraft bank robbers, submitted their resignations.

The step was taken on the assumption that the bankers had promised $1,000 for each death of a robber, whereas the bankers asserted they promised to pay only $1,000 reward in connection with such robbery. The association was understood to be seeking other vigilantes to replace those resigned.

Rewards of $125 each were paid by the Dunn-co bankers yesterday to Sheriff L. L. Harmon. Under Sheriff Jack Harmon and Louis Patterson and Alfred Strand, vigilantes for the slaying of Charles P. Harmon, one of the bank robbers. The four men then contributed $125 each toward a Christmas gift for Mrs. John Kline, 55, who lost her husband in the bank robbery.

Frank Walker was the other robber shot to death after the holding of James Kraft, son of the bank president, and of a gunsmith and wounded at the hands of the robbers when he was taken from the bank as a shield.

20,000 BASKETS ARE HANDED OUT IN WISCONSIN

All Communities Make Provisions to Care for Unemployed

By The Associated Press
The needy of Wisconsin and upper Michigan will learn today and tomorrow that there is a Santa Claus. More than 20,000 Christmas baskets will be distributed over the state tonight and tomorrow, a survey reveals, and that is not half that will be done to bring Christmas cheer into the hearts of the less fortunate.

Community dinners to which are invited those who have been unable to provide a hearty meal for themselves and their families for many a day, were being held today and will continue in several cities through New Year's day.

Church, social and church organizations and business institutions have sent every effort to see that no stomach is empty Christmas day.

The Christmas baskets contain food to stock bare cupboards for a week; there is clothing for thinly clad bodies, and there are toys by the thousands to revive faith in those youngsters who were told Santa Claus might not get their letters this Christmas.

The spirit of Christmas has been manifest in many ways. Rabbits For Poor
In Wausau 950 rabbits were being distributed today to needy families. They were tagged in three community bins sponsored by the American Legion. Public spirited citizens furnished ammunition, lunches and transportation for the hunters.

In Milwaukee it is estimated more than 2,000 baskets will be distributed. A community Christmas tree celebration will be held tonight. At one place tomorrow, through the courtesy of a car owner, 500 baskets will be served to 500 needy persons.

In Madison, civic and welfare organizations will provide entertainment Christmas night, in addition to distributing hundreds of baskets. The Salvation army expects to furnish food to 250 families.

In Superior, more than 800 baskets of food will be given away as well as over 2,500 toys, obtained at a theatre matinee where each boy and girl brought toys for admission.

Charity workers in Oshkosh declare no family will go hungry Christmas day. About 200 baskets with toys and money will be distributed. Shoes and warm clothes also have been assured.

Janesville will supply food baskets, clothing and toys to 300 families. A Christmas party will be given for students at the Wisconsin School for the Blind.

Parties for Orphans
Mankato will, with $300 interest from an $11,200 city Christmas fund will buy food and charitable and fraternal organizations will distribute baskets. Theaters and the Elks are staging parties for orphans. Earl Wilson, restaurant owner, is serving free food to needy persons from noon to 8 p. m. today.

Menominee, Mich., is determined no family shall be without a dinner on Christmas throughout the New Year. Rudolph Cierney, restaurant and filling station owner, is distributing 170 quarts of milk to needy children.

Bushnell, each with 15 different kinds of food will be distributed to 200 needy homes in Two Rivers. Gravelle has prepared to care for 100 needy.

The Elks club in Green Bay today fed more than 1,000 unfortunate children at its annual Christmas party.

The names of Racine's unfortunate have been furnished to churches, the Salvation army and other agencies which will see that they eat heartily Christmas day. Toys rebuilt by the women will help make about 600 children happy.

In Ironwood, Mich., and Hurley, Wis., no care leaders plan that no one in the community Christmas day in communities of 22 miles. Gargis range. Nearly 500 baskets will be provided through the social service association in Ironwood.

Antioch will provide 157 baskets. Food supplies for families and gifts for children will be forthcoming in Elkhart. Elkhart will distribute 150 baskets. More than a hundred families in Wisconsin Rapids will receive gifts and fancy foods.

From a fund of $20,000, raised by popular subscription and charity benefits, baskets containing food, clothing and toys will be distributed to about 4,000 families in Kenosha.

U. S. AGAIN MOVES FOR PEACE IN MANCHURIA
Washington — (AP) — New representations to Japan to prevent renewed hostilities in Manchuria were announced today by the state department.

In the first formal statement on the situation for several days, the state department said Ambassador Forbes in Tokyo had been instructed to express again to the Japanese foreign office the American government's concern over reports the Japanese army was contemplating movements on Chinchow.

Four Measures Are Passed Thus Far In Legislative Session

BUT WAY CLEAR FOR EARLY VOTE ON OTHER BILLS

Further Struggles Predicted Between Two Houses on Fund Proposals

Madison—(AP)—A perusal of the special session record of the state legislature, while the members are home spending Christmas, discloses the only four bills passed during the five weeks of the session but this is no indication of what has been going on in the chambers.

With the exception of the fanfare and discussion that marked the passage of the new law for a tax of 6 cents a pound on olomargarine the other measures that have gone to Governor LaFollette took up little of the lawmakers' time.

Due to the acute political complexion of the session and against the Progressive controlled assembly the governor's emergency and future unemployment relief bills and his proposed banking legislation, all containing controversial issues have run against a wall of opposition.

When the legislators were not adopting resolutions for investigations, inquiries, and reports, and for memorializing congress and other bodies in various and sundry arguments, for and against the administration program.

Between times they passed laws setting up a state fund to insure public deposits in banks; revising a method to get around the invalid oleo tax law of 1931; paying immediately to the counties the gas tax receipts they get in lieu of general property taxes; and preserving Dane's present status in regard to mothers' pensions. There are other bills pending which have passed one, but not both chambers.

Duplicate Measures

A peculiar situation obtains by reason of the fact that duplicate bills to carry out the governor's program have been introduced in each house.

The assembly has engrossed and passed the bill for the amendment of the groves bill for stabilization of employment and the upper house defeated it. The assembly approved the Nixon $17,000,000 unemployment relief bill introduced for the administration but the Pons bill, a duplicate in the senate, is dead. The lower house passed the Groves unemployment insurance bill. The senate has not acted on it yet but its passage is doubtful.

Notwithstanding the conflicting votes these issues are all more or less alive, for in no instance have the duplicate bills in the two houses both been killed. Those that are still alive may come up for action at any time.

The Progressives, in addition to their own 14 votes in the senate have been getting the Socialist vote and occasionally some independent support but not enough for the required two-thirds majority on the bank bill or the bare majority needed on other issues.

The conservatives and three independents, when they vote together have a working majority of 17 of the 32 senate seats. This combination blocked the governor's $17,000,000 relief bill and passed the Nelson (independent) substitute bill for $5,000,000, which the assembly promptly killed.

Compromise Offered

Senator Walter Polakowski, the lone Socialist, now proposes a compromise measure of $2,000,000 indicating that the governor's bill has little chance to be revived in the senate.

The Polakowski substitute, levying $9,000,000 in surtaxes on incomes of individuals and corporations during 1931 and appropriating $1,000,000 from the general fund comes up for a vote in the senate Tuesday.

Taxpayers have gone dizzy trying to figure out their potential share of the cost of relief proposals that have been advanced. Newspapers have been full of tax tables and figures, published incomes and other data on a gamut of bills ranging from five to 17 gives no promise of immediate solution.

Senator Platteau E. Nelson of Maple had been voted with the Progressives, might swing the LaFollette plan to success.

But Nelson was opposed to a $5,000,000 provision in the governor's bill for forestry work for single unemployed men, although it comes from one of the forest counties. He explained that this money would have been administered by the counties. He said he preferred to have $5,000,000 distributed among localities so they could use their own portions for forestry work and administer it as they saw fit. He also was reported as opposed to the provision for a refund on about $5,000,000 to general property taxpayers on the ground that others than the needy would get the benefit.

POSTPONE MEETING OF SCOUT LEADERS

The seventh meeting of the valley scout leaders training conference scheduled for 7:30 Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. was postponed because of the Christmas holidays, according to M. G. Clark, executive. The next meeting will be held after the holidays.

Y. M. C. A. CLOSING AT 7 O'CLOCK TONIGHT

Appleton Y. M. C. A. boys department will close at 6 o'clock tonight and remain closed over Christmas. The men's lobby and the entire building will be closed at 7 o'clock tonight. The lobby and office will be open tomorrow.

Mrs. Maurice Hewett, seventy-year-old widow of the novelist and believed to be the world's first woman pilot having learned to fly in 1908, has just flown from England to Japan.

In Killing of Manufacturer

This mansion at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was the scene of the desperate struggle in which J. W. Schatz (center), 56-year-old manufacturer, was brutally murdered, and a companion, Mrs. Florence Carozza, 26, was wounded, allegedly by a Japanese butler whom Schatz had discharged. The butler, Genro Akiyama, and his sister-in-law, Sadako Otsuka, both were held on first degree murder charges.

Traditional Yule Fetes For Stars Of Hollywood

Hollywood—(AP)—Snow in the mountains and sunshine in the desert are offering steep competition, but the traditional Christmas celebration by the home fireside is favored in the plans of most of Hollywood's stars.

For two young players, Helen Twelvetrees and Marguerite Churchill, tomorrow will be a double celebration, a birthday as well as Christmas. For Ruth Chatterton, Christmas eve is a birthday.

To the desert will go Marie Dressler, Sidney Fox, and numerous others, but it is the mountains that are luring the snow-lovers of this snowless town. Richard Dix and his bride and their families, the Clive Brooks, Mary Astor and her husband, Dr. Franklin Thorpe, Myrna Loy, Anita Page—accompanied by father and mother and little brother—will all be found at various mountain resorts, and the George Bancrofts will be there the day after Christmas.

It will be the first Christmas together for many movie newsmen besides Dix, Lew Ayres and Lola Lane will be in San Diego to spend the day with Lew's family, Constance Bennett and Henri de la Falaise will entertain the other Bennetts, including Joan's little daughter, and Richard, their father. The Walter Hustons will be at home, and the Wesley Ruggles (Arlene Judge) will have open house at their beach home, where Charlie Ruggles will be a guest. Gloria Swanson and Michael Farmer are honeymooning aboard, but Dorothy Mackaill and Neil Miller are here for their first year together.

Stars who are traveling or working at personal appearances include Charles Chaplin, Ronald Coleman, Janet Gaynor, Will Rogers, James Dunn, Fifi Dorsay, Richard Arlen and Johnny Ralston. Eddie Cantor is in New York and has sent for his family to join him.

Mary Pickford and Ann Harding both are expecting their husbands to join them today. Harry Bennington, flying their plan home from Florida, was delayed by weather while Miss Harding came by train. Douglas Fairbanks, his foreign tour abandoned, was on his way to Mary and Pickford, where a "home Christmas" was to be the happier because Jack Pickford has recovered from his illness and Lottie Pickford, and little Gwynn, Mary's niece, will all be there. Doug. Jr. and Joan Crawford are home from New York.

This Christmas Harold Jr., now weighing 17 pounds eight ounces and exactly 11 months old on the holiday, will join the celebration at the Lord mansion, where little Peggy and Gloria opened Christmas stockings alone before.

Baby Harold's first Christmas will be Dolores Ethel Mae Barrymore's second, and the John Barrymores are celebrating at home. The Wallace Berlys are enjoying their first Yuletide with children of their own.

GUARD AGAINST HOLIDAY FIRES, M'GILLAN ASKS

Danger of Conflagrations Greater at This Time of Year, He Points Out

Fire Chief George P. McGillan today issued another warning urging Appleton residents to use every precaution to safeguard themselves, their families and their homes against Christmas fires. The chief pointed out that a warning heeded now may be the means of saving many lives and considerable property. He said that Appleton has not had any serious Christmas fires in recent years, but that many occur throughout the United States. There always is the possibility of one here unless safety first measures were carefully observed.

"The fire department is anxious to put out fires, but we will have a happier Christmas if there is not even one alarm of fire. The so-called Christmas hazards can be safeguarded," he declared.

The chief warned that correct choice of material for decorating is one of the important points to consider.

Santa Claus, with his cotton whiskers and inflammable costume may become a real fire danger," he said. "Trees that are allowed to dry out, that are trimmed with paper and celluloid decorations and surrounded by materials that burn rapidly, are also the cause of serious home fires at a time when happiness should prevail.

Can Be Safeguarded

"There are many ways to safeguard Christmas and yet enjoy an old-fashioned holiday season. Inflammable decorations should under no circumstances be placed near open lights or electric light bulbs. Flake asbestos, borax and other fire safe materials sparkle brightly and give the appearance of snow, but do not increase the fire hazard. Toys requiring alcohol, naphtha, kerosene or gasoline to heat or operate should never be given to children. They have both a fire and an explosion hazard.

"The tree should be set in a pan of water, so that it will stay green.

JUDGE AGAIN MAKES LONE JOURNEY INTO STRONGHOLD OF GANG

Chicago—(AP)—A menacing figure stalked the "valley district" last night.

Judge Francis Borrelli was on the warpath again—this time in an effort to learn who stole the automobile of his son, Francis, Jr.

It was the judge's second excursion into the "valley" known as the district in which the notorious "42" gang holds sway. His first visit was made recently in an attempt to get inside information on members of the gang he vowed he would put out of business.

With cap pulled down, the jurist swaggered through the "valley" but so far as could be learned he did not learn the thief's name.

"Father," said Francis, Jr., "figured that some of those valley gangsters stole the car just to get even with him."

The machine was stolen from a point near the younger Borrelli's home.

MEETING SPEAKER AT SCHOOL DEDICATION

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools was one of the speakers on the dedication program for Crystal Springs school near Seymour last night. The new school was erected at a cost of $5,000 to replace the old one which burned a few months ago. The new building is modern in all respects, has a stage, bubble system and all modern conveniences.

A Christmas program and play were other features of the evening's program.

longer and be less combustible. It should be fastened securely at bottom and top. No bare wire should be used on the tree, and the lights should be turned on only when adults are present. If a fuse blows out, the cause should be found and corrected at once.

Don't Use Candles

"Candles should not be used on trees. If used elsewhere in the house, they should be kept from contact with anything that is inflammable. Adults should be ready to act quickly in an emergency.

"Merchants have cooperated with the fire department in taking special precautions during the holiday season. If aisles are kept clear and combustible material is promptly removed, the danger of a serious store fire is reduced.

"Where necessary, special guards should be employed to direct people. The premises should be cleared in an orderly manner in case of an emergency."

Suggestions for Last Minute Christmas Shoppers

It was voted at the last city council meeting, Dec. 16th, to consider the purchase of the old Reliance Truck Building on Spencer Street, at a price of $40,000 for the use of our street department equipment and supplies.

Last year, according to the voice of the city officials, we could not afford to build an incinerator plant, or a needed building for our Water Department.

Undoubtedly we need them both, probably we could get along without them, we have got along O. K.

He the unemployed worthy man who is physically able and willing to work, the man who looks you straight in the eye when he says, "could you help me to get work" am obligated to my family, they and I like to eat and live well. But I want to earn it, am not a street idler, am not a moucher, I do not want charity. I want work, I refuse to be made a beggar, because I am unable to get a job. What have you as an individual to offer? First of course my job was lost, next my resources, this is not going to last long, I was told. It may last a long time.

We do not like these times, we wish we had our good old jobs back again, how we would appreciate them now. I wish business would pick up and jobs would be available for everybody.

Our own ideas as to improvements in government policy and industry, our hopes of intelligent men trying to think it all out straight.

I would a hundred times rather work, than have any grub given to me, I want work, I want to earn the food for myself, and my family.

We need a new street department building built. Let's buy it the $40,000, 130,000 man labor hours, 50 hours per week for each man, 20 weeks, or 5 months of employment for each of 100 worthy men. Then let's buy about $20,000 worth of building materials, from our home town merchants. (It will cost at least that much to fix up the Reliance Truck Co. Building. Build a modern building suitable to the needs of our street and bridge department.

A building worthy of the price that any man or administration possesses. A building which will be practical to its purpose and the erection of which has solved our City of Appleton unemployment situation for the time being at least. Believe me? Partner and taxpayer.

Respectfully Yours,
OLOF M. LUNDQUIST.

Christmas Here And There Throughout United States

Christmas, Fla.—(AP)—It's a far cry from the North pole, where Santa Claus lives, to Christmas, Florida, surrounded by palms, tall cypress and exotic tropical foliage. But the community is having a joyous Yuletide despite this antithesis. Christmas is about 20 miles east of Orlando and census figures credit it with 190 inhabitants. It is not the most prosperous community in the world, but it is never lacking in the world's foremost commodity—food.

Livestock is plentiful here, to say nothing of the abundant supply of wild game. Within a stone's throw of the village are to be found quail, rabbit, deer—and just the other day a party of hunters killed a 400-pound black bear. Christmas and vicinity is considered one of the finest hunting grounds in the state.

Austin, Texas—(AP)—Her name is Mary Christmas. She is the pianist at the Church of the Assembly of God. She arranges the Christmas programs. Until she moved recently, she lived on Holley-st. Clerks were included to say, "oh, yeah" when she would say: "Please charge it to Mary Christmas on Holley-st."

Chicago—(AP)—Christmas means a triple birthday celebration at the Oest home. Elmer, 33, his wife, Rosa, 31, and their child, Shirley, 5, all were born on Christmas.

Washington—(AP)—The five little "J's" in the family of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, all know this year for the first time their Santa Claus is only "the old man."

Despite the discovery, James, Jr., Jane, Jean, Joan, and Jewel will have their stockings hanging as usual from the mantelpiece tonight. Beside them will be two big ones, for even a senator has sentimental privileges on Christmas eve.

Santa Claus, Ind.—(AP)—Christmas eve will find residents of Santa Claus worried over the intention of the postoffice department to change the name it has born for 80 years. A disappointingly small amount of Christmas mail sent here to receive a "Santa Claus" postmark, led the department to contemplate the change.

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Christmas has turned into a period of thanksgiving for Louisville postal clerks, all because Santa Claus, Ind., has not turned out to be so popular a mailing center as was expected.

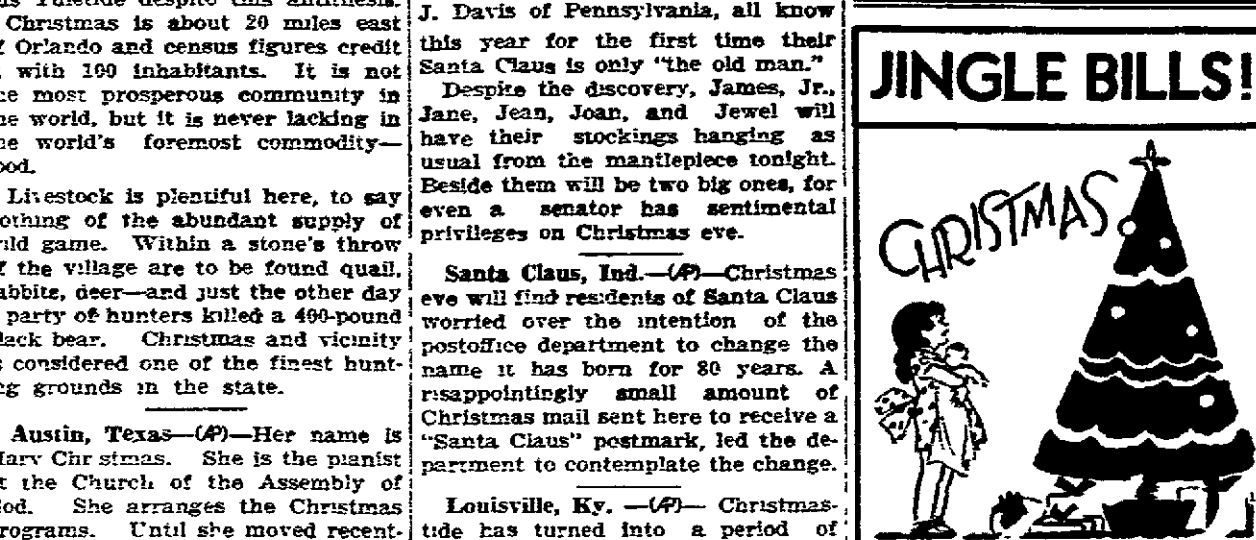

Already burdened with local mail, the Louisville postoffice had been notified all mail postmarked at the Indiana town would be shipped here, sorted and dispatched. However, the augmented force at Santa Claus has been able to handle the rush.

Baltimore—(AP)—The spirit of Christmas opened the gates of the Baltimore city jail for eight men waiting trial. Following an annual custom the state's attorney selected eight from among the prisoners for a holiday day parole. They will return Christmas night.

Brazil will electrify the Central de Brazil lines.

SEEK PLAN TO SOLVE CREDITS PROBLEM IN U. S.

Working Arrangement May Be Perfected Between Two Groups

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1931, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—A working relationship between the national credit corporation, whose debentures are owned by the banks, and the reconstruction finance corporation, which will be financed by the federal government, may be the outgrowth of the present discussions on Capitol Hill as to the best way of thawing out frozen or slow credits in the nation's financial institutions.

Under the powers of the pending bill creating the reconstruction finance corporation, it would be possible to have the latter act as a re-escorting agency for the obligations of the national credit corporation and it would enable the reconstruction finance corporation to do many things which the bankers' pool of last October has found itself unable to do.

Testimony by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, that the discretion of the reconstruction finance corporation's directors should be much broader than that vested in the national credit corporation has shed light on the desirability of the latter organization to make many loans or call for the subscriptions of capital. To date about $100,000,000 out of the suggested $500,000,000 has been subscribed, but only about 10 per cent has been called.

Wait for Program
The official answer to the query as to why more loans have not been made is that there has not been any demand but the impression which some senators now have is that the national credit corporation really has been waiting for the reconstruction finance corporation to be set up, so as to use the latter corporation to handle the frozen or slow assets that will take a couple years or more to work out. Also it is suggested that the machinery of the national credit corporation prevents action on loans to care for assets of banks already closed. Mr. Traylor thought this was a work which the reconstruction finance corporation could do immediately.

It is estimated that $1,750,000,000 of resources have been tied up in closed banks in the last two years. The experience of the country over the last 50 years shows that approximately 75 per cent of the assets of closed banks are usually recovered for the depositors. Applying this rule to the present situation it would mean that about $1,300,000,000 would be restored to the depositors in due course.

Again applying the rule of experience it is found that of the sums liquidated for the benefit of depositors, about three-fourths are repaid within six to nine months after a bank closes.

Against Direct Action
This would mean that if the process of liquidation of assets of closed banks were accelerated, it might be possible to restore about $1,075,000,000 or a good share thereof to the depositors and stockholders and thus return to circulation a vast amount of money. This is a job of reconstruction which the proponents of the new bill think should be done, but they seek to accomplish it

J. H. (Jack) Payne Says Work at Rangoon Meeting With Success

Y. M. C. A. work at Rangoon, Burma, is the subject of a report received by Appleton Y. M. C. A. and being distributed to association members from H. J. (Jack) Payne, who was connected with Appleton association for several years. Mr. Payne went to the west coast after leaving Appleton. He has been in Burma for several years.

He states: "Although the year 1930-31 will go down in the history of the Rangoon association as one of calamity—earthquake, riots, and revolution—the result of the financial campaign shows the vitality of the work and the respect in which it is held by the community."

Almost as much money as raised in former years was collected last year, Mr. Payne said, and a boys' branch was opened in June.

The association has started a Street Boy's League which houses 50 boys many of whom are doing odd jobs about the city. The work received much approval because it removes the boys from unwholesome surroundings and puts them on the road to full citizenship.

Mr. Payne's work secretary here before the war and spent several months in Appleton after the war. He is married to the former Miss Grace Poth of Appleton.

Tax Collection Starts Monday, City Treasurer Announces

BRING ALONG OLD RECEIPTS, PAYERS URGED

Sale of Dog Licenses Also Gets Under Way at City Hall Next Week

The tax collection period will start Monday morning, F. E. Bachman, city treasurer, announced today. Taxpayers are asked to refrain from calling city hall until that time, as no amounts can be given out until the receipts are completely sorted and filed.

The sale of dog licenses also will start Monday, with Feb. 1 as the deadline. The charge is the same as last year, $1 for males and $2 for females.

City hall workers are in the last throes of preparing for the rush of the tax collection period. Receipts are being sorted alphabetically and in wards, and by Monday everything will be in readiness for the payment of taxes. Taxpayers are urged to bring with them their old receipts, as this offers a ready check of property descriptions, and saves unnecessary delay at the window.

Taxpayers this year will pay an $18 tax rate, on a total valuation of $45,800,000. This will bring $860, $58,100, of which $51,051.57 is on personal property, and $79,048.43 on real estate and improvements. From the first ward $19,471 will be collected, from the second, $20,259, from the third, $123,558, from the fourth, $100,775, from the fifth, $160,561, and from the sixth, $88,580.

The total city budget is $521,835, of which $190,222 is in the tax levy. It is expected that the remaining $331,613 to be spent on city affairs will come from receipts such as the utility and income taxes, fees, etc.

Wisconsin Weather

Partly cloudy; colder in east portion tonight. Friday generally fair.

General Weather

Snow is falling this morning over western Wisconsin, southeastern Minnesota and northern Iowa, while rain is falling over southern and eastern sections of Wisconsin and scattered areas in Iowa. This is being caused by a low pressure area which overrides this region, being centered over lower Lake Michigan this morning. Strong winds are also occurring in connection with the disturbance, with fog over southern portions of the Great Lakes. Warm weather still prevails over the lake region and east of the Mississippi River, but below freezing temperatures prevail from the Mississippi westward over the Rocky Mountain region. However, temperatures are beginning to rise again over the extreme northwest because of a deep low pressure area which is centered there this morning. The outlook is for mostly fair weather tonight and Friday, with colder tonight.

Has Dry Plan

Representative Thomas R. Amle, Wisconsin, shown here, a new member to Congress, has evolved a novel plan for tackling the prohibition problem. Amle would modify the Volstead Act so it would not apply to any individual complying with the law enforcement acts of his state, and thus the Volstead Act would be legally inoperative in states which have no prohibition laws of their own.

WARNS PARENTS TO CARE FOR CHILDREN

County Nurse Says Colds Contracted During Vacation Are Dangerous

Outagamie-co parents are urged by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, to give close attention to the health of their children during the school vacation.

Through the efforts of teachers and public health nurses, backed by local medical forces, vigilant care is exercised at schools throughout the county to prevent the outbreak of communicable diseases. It is pointed out by Miss Klein.

During vacation periods, however, the county nurse and the school nurse are unable to watch the health of children in group, and must depend on help from parents in watching a high degree of mental health in their respective territories.

"Common colds, with their frequent aftermath of bronchitis and pneumonia, are among the ailments that should be guarded against particularly during the holidays," the statement reads.

"Outdoor play is the best resistance builder against these diseases, along with nourishing meals and plenty to sleep, but care must be taken to keep the children warmly dressed for cold-weather play and to attend promptly to wet feet."

"The tendency to indulge the children's wish to keep late hours in vacation time is an unwise one, because it may counteract the strengthening effects of play during the period spent away from school."

"Danger of injury by automobiles is markedly increased in vacation time, due to the long hours of unorganized play, and this factor adds further to the parents' part in preserving life and health during the holiday season."

MAP FINDINGS OF EXPERTS ON DEBT PUZZLE

Summary Given on Findings of Advisory Committee at Basel

Basel—(AP)—The official summary of the Young plan advisory committee report calling for adjustment of all reparations and war debts, follows in part:

Sweeping withdrawals of foreign credits played havoc with the financial system of Germany and led to a series of legislative enactments which culminated in the emergency decree of Dec. 3, 1931, which includes measures without parallel in modern legislation.

Germany was particularly susceptible to the credit crisis because of the large amount of her short term foreign debt. A census taken by the German government showed 12 milliards of Reichsmarks owing at the end of July. (A milliard of Reichsmarks at current exchange rate is $236,222,000.)

Prior to that date it was estimated that 2.9 milliards have been withdrawn and since then 1.2 milliards have been withdrawn under the standstill agreement.

Against this, exports have recently been heavy, but exceedingly long credit has been given in many cases and the surplus of exports has been due in part to certain special causes, including pressure on manufacturers to sell stocks and some exceptional sales to Great Britain in anticipation of tariffs.

It is doubtful whether this surplus of exports can continue at its recent level, in view of general adverse factors, including higher tariffs, exchange restrictions in other countries and sterling competition.

The rough balance of payments shows that Germany will have had to meet during the whole of 1931 with a deficit of capital amounting to about 4.5 milliards of Reichsmarks. This has caused a drain of gold and foreign exchange from the Reichsbank of 1.7 milliards of Reichsmarks.

Severe Measures

As a result, the Reichsbank has had to take a series of measures of increasing stringency in order to limit other calls for foreign exchange which might be made upon it. Nevertheless it has continued to lose reserves while at the same time it has been forced to extend its own credit to make up for sweeping losses of deposits by banks and savings banks.

Germany's industrial production fell between 1928 and 1931 by one-third, which has resulted in an increase of unemployment to a level of 5,000,000 wholly unemployed, out of about 21,000,000 employed persons.

Interest rates have been high in Germany ever since inflation. During 1930 advances to manufacturers of first class standing have seldom cost less than 8 per cent. The figure is now about 12 per cent.

The decline in industrial activity with its effect on profits, wages and the level of unemployment, seriously reduced the yield of taxation. If new taxes bringing in 1.5 milliards of Reichsmarks had not been imposed the decline in revenue in the last two years would have been about 3.5 milliards, or 40 per cent of the total.

Sweeping Economies

Besides new taxation sweeping economies have been made in the budget, particularly in the salaries of civil servants, which now are to be reduced about 20 per cent as compared with 1929 and will be below the level paid in 1927.

Reductions also have been made in unemployment benefits and poor relief. It is, however, an advantage to the German budget that the debt charge contained therein is comparatively low, and the sketch of the budget for 1932, which was examined by the committee, contained a considerable sum for amortization of the short term debt.

In view of the measures taken in the last two years, and in particular the decree of Dec. 8, the committee expresses the opinion that the burden of taxation in Germany has become so high that there is no margin for further increase.

Crisis Described

Chapter 1 of the committee's report bears with it a description of the world crisis, of which the outstanding feature is the fall in prices. All forms of economic activity have been affected. Reduced purchasing power involved disappearance of profits, unemployment and an unimpaired slump in stock exchange securities.

The stability of banks has been imperiled and the withdrawal of foreign capital from borrowing countries—particularly in central Europe—threatened the stability of currencies, which has resulted in control of the exchange market and in certain cases suspension of foreign payments. The spreading of the crisis to lending countries involved the abandonment of the gold standard by some of them, which has given rise to a tendency to hoard. The latest phase is the imposing of tariffs and other restrictions which has still further reduced international trade.

Commenting on this situation in relation to reparations, the committee recalls the dilemma referred to by the banking committee in August, and points out the contradiction that might arise between a system involving large annual payments by debtor to creditor countries, while at the same time putting obstacles in the way of the free movement of goods.

So long as fresh capital was being lent to the debtors the dilemma did not seem to arise; but in 1929, when these capital movements ceased, it became evident that in the long run these annual payments must be met in the form of goods.

Adjustment Question

Just the world cannot quickly adjust itself to important changes in the course of credit and trade, and

JAIL INMATES TO GET TURKEY FOR CHRISTMAS DINNER

Christmas at Outagamie-co jail isn't going to be half bad when one is reminded of the dinner being prepared for tomorrow by Sheriff John Lappen's wife. The meal will include turkey and goose, dressing, mashed potatoes and sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, rolls, coffee and pumpkin pie. Fourteen prisoners will be served.

The wanderers who find their way to the county house today and tomorrow will not share in the meal—they'll get only a common hand-out.

At the county asylum the 185 inmates will be treated to a roast pork dinner with all the trimmings, including squash, candy, peanut butter, nut apples and a Christmas tree, according to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanagan, caretakers.

attempts to maintain the international balance of payments by large movements of gold weakened the monetary foundation of many countries.

The committee would not consider it had fully accomplished its task if it did not draw the attention of the governments to the unprecedented gravity of the crisis, the magnitude of which undoubtedly exceeds the "relatively short depression" envisaged in the Young plan, to meet which the "measures of safeguard" contained therein were designed.

The Young plan, with its rising series of annuities, contemplated a steady expansion in world trade, not merely in volume but in value, in which the annuities payable by Germany would become a factor of diminishing importance. In fact the opposite has been the case.

Since the Young plan came into effect not only has the trade of the world shrunk in value, but the very exceptional fall in gold prices that has occurred in the last two years has itself added greatly to the real burden, not only of German annuities but of all payments fixed in gold.

In the circumstances, the German problem—which is largely responsible for the growing financial paralysis of the world—calls for concentrated action which the governments alone can take.

No Earlier Example

There is no previous parallel in time of peace to the dislocation that is taking place and it may well involve a profound change in the economic relations of the nations to one another. Action is most urgently needed in a much wider field than that of Germany alone.

The economic interdependence of the various countries of the world today needs no further proof. Recent years have most strikingly illustrated it.

Since July last, it has been evident that if the crisis by which the rest of Europe, destroy the credit systems so painstakingly built up and create profound recessions in other parts of the world.

Economic activity continues with difficulty at a very low ebb in the face of restricted credit, rigid control of exchanges and paralyzing restrictions of international trade. This state of things is complicated by the reaction of economic affairs and political problems and vice versa.

The committee suggests that the governments should particularly take note of various considerations. That transfers (repatriation and war debt payments) from one country to another can only accentuate the present chaos.

Release of a debtor country from a burden of payments which it is unable to bear may merely have the effect of transferring that burden to the creditor country, which it in turn may be unable to bear.

Adjustments of all reparations and other war debts to the troubled situation of the world—and this adjustment should take place without delay if new disasters are to be avoided—is the only lasting step capable of re-establishing confidence.

Finally, although the German government is energetically defending the stability of its currency, steps are necessary to secure that these measures shall have permanent effect. Destruction of the work which the European governments have undertaken in recent years in order to re-establish the stability of currencies would mean an extremely disquieting setback heavy with consequences.

The report ends with an appeal to the governments to permit "no delay in dealing with this great crisis which weighs so heavily on all alike."

Snow Adds Finishing Touch To Christmas

With the weather man deciding—however tardily and however reluctantly—to join hands with Santa, Appleton, will have a white Christmas after all. The soft snow that fell this morning added the finishing touch to Appleton's unusual decorations, and from the huge tree on College-ave through to the residential district, blue, red, green and gold lights peep out from blankets of soft, clinging snow.

The Community Christmas tree, majestically lovely through the hand-work of man, became even more picturesque this morning when nature made of it a huge white cone, with every branch laden with mounds of snow. White roofs, yards and trees added the proper touch to the many artistically decorated homes in the city.

Though the snow increased the Christmas spirit, it was deterrent for last-minute shoppers. A task at any time, last-minute shopping was made increasingly difficult by the falling wet snow and the slushy streets.

However, the storm was not serious enough to interfere with travel, so most Christmas shoppers will be carried out as scheduled. People employed in Appleton are leaving by every train, bus and car for their homes, tomorrow whole families will travel to nearby farms or cities for Christmas dinner, and only an unfortunate few will be forced to eat their Christmas dinners in restaurants and hotels.

Organizations throughout the city are sending Christmas baskets to the needy and tomorrow all those who have no other means of securing Christmas tree lights, sage, Christ-Salvation Army hall.

Mailmen are still trudging with heavily-laden packs, in an attempt to deliver all Christmas mail before tomorrow, butchers are turning out turkeys, geese and chickens at high speed, and the doors of Appleton stores are constantly swinging behind shoppers who forgot to get Christmas tree lights, sage, Christmas cards, olives, place cards, garnishings and the thousand other things that people always forget.

LOVE BY MAIL—FOR SAKE OF SCIENCE: AIRS "FINDINGS"

Chicago—(AP)—Sheldon Klein, 19-year-old student of psychology at a university, admits he made love to 100 women by mail for science's sake. His research led him to conclude:

"Any woman will listen to a hard-luck story, but blondes are more sympathetic."

All women like to think the man paying them attention is handsome. When women are at loss for words of romantic endearment, they snap up the banal endearments of popular songs.

Most women are anchored to a narrow routine, and want to break away in imagination. So Klein told them he was a tea planter from India.

Love is the only illusion that women won't surrender. Francis J. Kennedy, assistant district attorney, who began an investigation into Klein's activities because of his huge mail from women, listened to the conclusions and decided that such experiments were too trivial for prosecution.

THREE INCHES OF SNOW RECORDED IN CITY

Prayers of Appleton children for snow so Santa Claus could successfully slide into this city on his sled have been answered. The more or less belated snow fell here this morning and in less than an hour the landscape was covered with a white blanket. Approximately three inches fell.

Skies will be cloudy tonight and the mercury is due for a drop on Christmas day, the weatherman says. Winds are shifting in the northeast, an indication that more snow may fall during the next 24 hours.

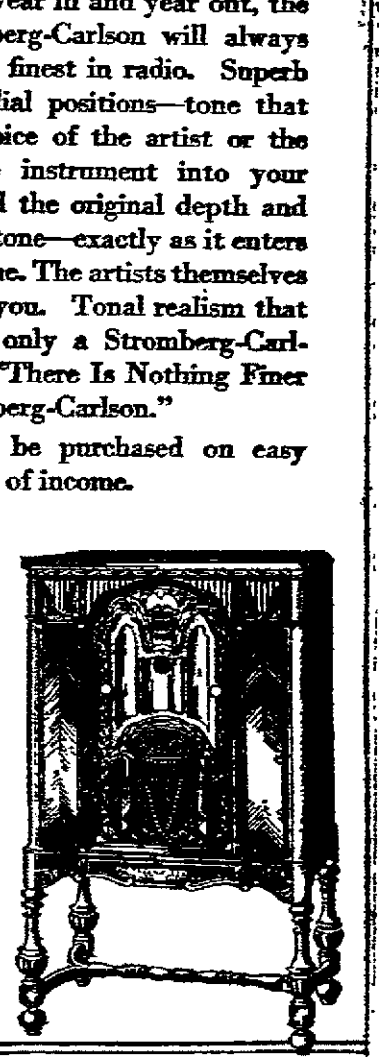

At 6 o'clock Thursday morning the mercury registered 34 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 28 degrees above.

Both the central government and municipalities of Spain are seeking measures to cope with the unemployment situation.

CIVIL WAR IS SEEN IN CHINA BY NEXT SPRING

Widow of Sun Yat Sen Says "Squabbling" Is Merely for "Additional Spoils"

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS
Copyright, 1931, Associated Press
Shanghai, Dec. 24.—Civil war in China by next spring was predicted today by Madame Sun Yat Sen, widow of China's former revolutionary president, who a few days ago delivered a strong attack upon the present Chinese leadership.

Referring to the recent changes in the government at Nanking, she said:

"These changes will in no way alter the atrocious conditions existing in the Kuomintang (national party). It is merely the squabbling of petty chieftains for additional spoils."

The Kuomintang, she said, as a leader of China's revolutionary movement is "dead."

Mme. Sun Yat Sen has been a revolutionary leader in China ever since, as a girl only just turned 20, she returned after graduating from the Yunnan college for women at Yunnan, Ga., and served as the provisional Republican government of 1912 with Dr. Sun Yat Sen, whom she married three years later.

She is now 41. After Dr. Sun's death in 1925 she assumed a greater leadership in the work of the revolution, serving on important governmental committees, interpreting the ideas of her late husband and establishing revolutionary schools.

She is a member of the famous Chinese Soong family and sister-in-law of former President Chiang Kai Shek.

Lauds Revolt Move
"What happens at Nanking," she continued, "is of little importance as related to the underlying peoples' revolutionary movement in which the country's salvation, The Canton, and warring chiefs may form a new government but it will be temporary."

"These self-interested, foreign-controlled politicians, who are in no way concerned with bettering China's position, either at home or abroad, will fall out before spring and then we will have more civil war."

In the past, springtime to China has meant war. The coming spring will be no exception. It will be the struggle between the Canton and Nanking cliques, with the militarists lined up on whichever side promises them the greatest spoils. Bloody as the coming struggle will be it will determine nothing permanent. It will be merely another episode among the many in which the country has been victimized by the politicians in whose hands it is now gripped.

"How long these civil wars will continue no one knows, but eventually the common people will arise, sweeping aside with one stroke these public enemies and establishing a real revolutionary government. Until the workers and peasants assume control, the ill-gotten estates of the wealthy landowners and also the country's industrial resources, foreign as well as native, thereby carrying out the revolution and making life livable for the common man, so long will disorder reign throughout China."

"Chaos and anarchy exist today. Nanking's bickering solve nothing. They don't interest in the country's welfare; they have no policy; they have nothing but desire for personal gain. They will all disappear when the people arise."

"Japan will be driven from Manchuria then as will all other foreign aggressors."

ROMANCE NOT GONE IN NEWSPAPERDOM, REUNITED PAIR SAY

Reporters Help Bring Estranged Couple Back Together After Long Hunt

BY PHILIP J. SINNOTT
San Francisco.—Maybe romance has departed entirely from then was paper business. Maybe the happenings are treated in a soulless way these days.

Maybe it's just an exception to prove the rule; perhaps it's a refutation of the popular belief—anyhow, the story of a lover's quarrel back in New York and its happy ending in San Francisco has a revealing background.

Miss Louise Hunter, 42, pretty blond South Carolina housewife, and Murray Salzman, young New York broker, were engaged. Salzman left Salzman out of New York. Upon his return, he found a letter:

"I received your letter, and I could not believe my eyes. It read: 'I am leaving. Just want to get away where I don't have a son who can hurt me.'"

Valley, Salzman sought the girl sought an explanation for the letter. He started a nationwide search. In San Francisco, he made an appeal to the police, gave officers the picture of attractive Miss Hunter.

A San Francisco News police reporter saw the picture. He sent it to the city desk. The "deck" talked to Salzman, and ran the picture and a story.

CHICAGO FINANCIER AND EX-PUBLISHER TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Col. Knowlton Ames, Sr., Found Shot to Death in His Automobile

Chicago.—(AP)—Col. Knowlton Ames, Sr., 63, social leader, financier, former newspaper publisher, and chairman of the board of Booth Fisheries, shot and killed himself last night in his automobile.

Members of the family said he had been near a nervous breakdown because of business worries, and that he had been unable to sleep for a week. His wife was hurrying back to Chicago from the family home in Florida at the time of his death and was due to arrive here today.

Mrs. Walter W. Ross, wife of a prominent attorney and sister of Col. Ames, said that Mrs. Ames had been hurriedly summoned home last Monday night because of her husband's condition. She said Col. Ames had been absent from his offices for more than a week. Attorney Ross said Col. Ames apparently was troubled over financial matters, most of them, imaginary.

Col. Ames dined with the Ross family last night and appeared they said, to be in a better frame of mind than in recent weeks. He left shortly after 8 o'clock p. m. for the Ambassador hotel, where he lived.

Arriving near the hotel, he sent the chauffeur to a drug store on an errand. The chauffeur heard a shot as he returned and was joined by a policeman in running to the automobile. They found Col. Ames lying in the tonneau, a new .38 caliber pistol just slipping from his fingers.

There was a bullet wound and powder marks on his left temple. He died a few minutes after arriving at a hospital.

Sons Are Publishers

Two sons, Knowlton L. Jr., president and publisher of the Chicago Evening Post, and John D., publisher of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, arrived at the hospital shortly after his death. A daughter, Rosemary, is a stage star in London, and the youngest child, Emily Anne, 15, is with her mother.

Col. Ames was publisher of the Journal of Commerce until a few years ago, when he gave the paper to his two sons. Knowlton, Jr., purchased the Chicago Post for $122,000 at a receiver's sale last February, and since then John D. Ames has been in sole charge of the Journal of Commerce.

During his college days at Princeton, where he was an outstanding football star, Col. Ames earned the nickname of "snake." He was one of the greatest football players of his day, and also excelled in other sports.

He became president of Booth Fisheries, with plants in Canada and America. In 1909, he held that office until last October when he became chairman of the board. He was succeeded in the presidency by Perry L. Smithers. Until his death he was associated with a Chicago brokerage firm bearing his name and was chairman of the board of finance of the Murray Corporation of America, with headquarters at Detroit.

Mrs. Ross said last night that her husband had taken Col. Ames to a Chicago physician last Monday for examination. After the examination she said, the physician quoted Col. Ames as saying he had been "unable to sleep for a week" and that "business reverses, one after another," were wearing him down.

NEAR-LEATHER FROM WOOL

What is claimed to be a very serviceable substitute for leather is being made from wool in England and has just been reported to the British inventor. It is said to take a high polish and should be suitable for the uppers of boots and shoes. The inventor, who has many other things usually made of leather.

He made, before, a straw hat of fringed, datura for his wife. Salzman, impulsively packed his belongings into his car and drove away.

Salzman had driven aimlessly around all night.

Early next day, he bought a copy of the San Francisco News which told of Miss Hunter's reappearance.

And he told the editor of a paper which he had just published, seeking a "match" for Salzman.

"Where is she?" he shouted. So the News reporter took Salzman to Miss Hunter.

The couple rushed into each other's arms, wildly happy.

A few minutes' time was ample to allow the reunited ones to make full explanations and absolve each other of blame.

The News reporters were first to be told that they'll soon be married.

BRITAIN WITHDRAWS FROM AIRSHIP FIELD TO LEAVE U. S. CHAMP

Germany and America Stand Alone—No Other Countries Building Them

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

London.—When very shortly the cluster of hammers and the flare of torches reduces airship R 100 to neat piles of junk, it will mark the end of England's proud forty million dollar dream of leading the world in airships.

It will mean more than that. It will mean that England has definitely gone out of the airship game.

It will leave to the United States the definite championship in naval airships and to Germany the definite championship in commercial airships. Other countries are not allowed to build them.

A Sad Salvage
The end of the chapter was definitely written when the British government made the brief announcement that it had given the contract to a firm of metal dealers to break up the R 100 at Cardington where she is moored.

The ship cost about $2,500,000. The price for which the metal in her was sold was not mentioned, but it probably does not exceed $25,000. The government is retaining the engines, the fabric and the gas-bags. A small part of the metal will also be retained and out of this souvenirs will be made for sale. The balance of the durable framework will go to the successful bidders. They expect to get some 50 tons of metal.

At a time the British government hoped to sell the R 100 to the United States government but nothing came of it. Persistent Ill Luck
England has had more bad than good luck with airships. In 1919 the R 34, built according to plans gathered by British engineers from German Zeppelins brought down during the World War, thrilled the British people by being the first to cross the Atlantic. In July, 1919, she flew to New York in 103 hours and came back in 75. In 1931 she was wrecked at Gweden. And from that time on most of the breaks were against the British. There were a number of mishaps, one of the worst being with the R 33 which the government built for sale to the United States Navy, August 24, 1921; she broke in two and fell in flames. She was on a trial flight over England. Commander Commander Campbell, her constructor, and a crew of young American naval officers and men were in her and 44 of them perished.

There was a pause for some time and then several years ago the British entered upon a grandiose scheme of airship building. Simultaneously the R 100 and the R 101 were constructed. Their cost, together with giant airships, engines and mooring masts, ran up to about 10 million dollars. The R 100 was designed for passenger transatlantic flight between Britain and the United States and Canada, if it could be proved to be commercially successful. The R 101 was designed for service to India and back. If they were successful, more were to be built.

The R 100 left her home base at Cardington July 28, 1930, and reached Montreal in slightly less than 79 hours.

A Tragic End
Then came the turn of the R 101. She left on Saturday night October 1, 1930, on her trial trip to India. She was a proud ship, considered the last word in construction, with ample berth accommodations for passengers, lounges, dining room and other things reminiscent of a true ocean vessel. The flower of Britain's air-minded men were on her, headed by Lord Thomson, Secretary for Air.

In the early hours of Sunday morning October 5 news came that the R 101 had met with a terrible disaster. The giant air liner had crashed on a hillside near Beauvais, France, and almost her entire crew and passenger list had lost their lives when she became a seething hell of flames and explosions. The terrible doom of the ship and 48 out of 54 of her passengers also marked the doom of airship programs for England.

France Bows Out
The French got out of the big airship game almost before it got in. Under the peace treaties Germany delivered to them the Zeppelins known as L 12, which they reconstructed the Dixmude. She was sent out by the French government on a cruise over the Mediterranean and North Africa in December, 1920. She never returned.

Since then the French have adopted a plan for very small airships. One ship, the V 10, has been built and is intended for coastal escort duty. The French type have 10,000 cubic feet gas capacity and are intended for convoy purposes.

They only made two attempts to make big ships. The first, constructed in 1925 was known as the Dixmude and named the Norge. In 1926, accompanied by Umberto Nobile, her constructor, she flew from Rome to England, then to Oslo, Leningrad and Spitzbergen, over the North Pole to Alaska where she was defeated. In 1927 the citizens of Milan subscribed the funds for another ship in which Nobile flew to the North Pole, but was wrecked on the way back.

Germans Were Pioneers
Germany possessed in the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen, the oldest airship plant in the world. It was founded in 1910 and regularly turned out Zeppelins until after the war when for a time its activities were curtailed by the peace treaties. Later restrictions were removed and work was resumed. The Zeppelins had their tragedies, but the Germans kept right at it. September 10, 1913, the L 1 was wrecked over Heligoland and 15 of her crew were killed. On October 15 of the same year the L 2 exploded at Berlin and 23 of her crew were killed. Of course a considerable number were brought down by the British during the World War when Zeppelins came to England on bombing expeditions.

Recognition of world's big airship was only made possible in 1929 (ship gone).

Seven are Gone, Three are Left

Three survivors of the ice tragedy which cost the lives of seven others, including Mrs. Marjorie E. Egan, are shown here. Mrs. Egan, on the left, and her two grandchildren in the brief minutes after the ship broke through the ice. The dog after an heroic effort to save the seven who were floundering in the lake, dashed to the shore and arrived Mrs. Egan to the scene by pulling her skirt.

Expect Gifford Committee Will Face Much Criticism

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—Even if Walter S. Gifford and the new unemployment relief committee do a very good job they can hardly be guaranteed against criticism and attack. These Hoover commissioners nearly always encounter trouble, great or small, sooner or later.

They are damned in proportion to their importance. Among the really hefty commissions engaged in trying to solve the unemployment problem you can't find one which, if it hasn't been attacked from without, hasn't gone and picked fights of its own.

Of course, no one ever bothers such Hoover commissions as those on the Battle of Monongahela, the Yellowstone Park boundary and the Alaska Highway and they don't go bothering anyone else, either.

But when you think of the Federal Farm Board and the National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, you get to wondering about the unpleasant experience that may be in store for Gifford and his associates this fall and winter as they go up against the pressing matter of relief.

The Farm Board holds the record of course. Perhaps because it has had the nerve to do so many astonishing things. Any federal body which was willing to enter the wheat and cotton markets in such a big way, fight the grain trade, subsidize wine concentrates and tell the cotton planters to destroy a third of their crop might well expect to create immense furores.

Everybody Kicks
Everybody took a kick at the Wickersham commission after its prohibition report, but since then, in report after report, the commission has been taking kicks at ever odd intervals. And of course nearly everyone criticized by this commission tosses some mean comment right back at it.

There is a White House Conference on Child Health and Protection.

NEEDY CHILDREN FETED AT KIWANIS YULE PARTY

A gala Christmas party, for 25 needy youngsters of the city was staged at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club at Conway hotel Wednesday afternoon. Following the festive dinner, Santa Claus distributed gifts to the children. George Parkman played the role of old St. Nick.

Special musical selections were sung by Appleton high school male quartet, after which the entire assembly sang Christmas carols.

When the German people's commission for the World War was set up in 1919, it was known as the Zeppelin Commission. In the streets of a city and town in the Reich people had seen boxes in which every passer-by was asked to drop some of his or her money for the war effort. The Zeppelin Commission was set up in 1919 and on October 1 left for the United States with 49 crew and 12 passengers, including the famous Graf Zeppelin. She has made more than 10 flights in a 100,000 cubic foot rigid airship, and been in the air more than 200 flying hours, as long as the most successful airship in history.

The United States has had its share of bad luck, but despite that on the 20th of October, 1930, the Graf Zeppelin was launched on a voyage of 10,000 miles and 24 of her crew of 42 men landed in the Italian army works, captured in 1922 after being fitted with new American engines and 25 of her crew were killed.

But next to the famous German Zeppelin, the most successful airship in the world is the Los Angeles which in 1931 during a voyage of 10,000 miles and 24 of her crew of 42 men landed in the Italian army works, captured in 1922 after being fitted with new American engines and 25 of her crew were killed.

Not only was she safely flown to the United States, but her total mileage is well over 120,000. The recent completion and trial flights of the enormous Akron, the biggest ever built of course, puts America in a definitely leading position.

In the United States, the biggest ever built of course, puts America in a definitely leading position.

P. O. WORKERS WIN IN BATTLE WITH 1931 RUSH

209,620 Pieces of Mail Cancelled in Machines Since Saturday

Twice the day before Christmas—and for the first time in many years employees of the Appleton post office were shouting "We've won the rush."

When 6 o'clock struck on Thursday morning the row of boxes filled with Christmas cards and letters that way through the card-sorting machine and were on their way.

The success of this year's campaign with the battle of Christmas mail had been at the post office since the push to get the mail sorting machines started on Saturday.

From Saturday morning the mail sorting machines were running at a slow pace, and the mail was not being sorted as fast as it was being received.

In addition to the 209,620 pieces of mail which were cancelled, there were thousands of all sorts of letters and parcels. The mail was not being sorted as fast as it was being received.

As in former years there is a large amount of mail which is not being sorted as fast as it was being received.

The emergency committee on employment struggled along for months despite an almost complete lack of authority to do anything at all, and then its chairman, Lord Arthur Woods, walked out along with several other members. The general understanding is that President Hoover and Colonel Woods couldn't agree concerning measures that might be taken for relief.

The Federal Power Commission is usually referred to as a "Hoover" commission because it has been reorganized and Hoover has appointed its members. That one got off to a flying start by firing its chief and chief accountant, who had many admirers in the Senate. The Senate undertook to reconsider the confirmation of the chairman and two other members, got stuck roundly, and bowed out by Mr. Hoover and then threw the question of the dignity of the commission's members right into the courts.

The Hoover Tariff Commission has been getting along by keeping quiet and not upsetting any applicants but Henry D. Litcher is getting the chairmanship because one of the other commissioners is a rat.

Other commissions have been razzed for recommendations, reports or acts—or just for alleged acts of omission. It's a puny lot that hasn't found opposition in some quarters.

Decorated Homes Attract Visitors

Hundreds Drive Around Town to See Holiday Illuminations

Appleton streets were bright last evening as hundreds of people drove about to see the Christmas decorations on either side of the Appleton Post-Crescent Holiday Lighting Contest. Not before was there so many illuminated homes and never were the decorations so beautiful as this year.

Admirers of homes entered in the contest were delivered to the judges yesterday afternoon and will all visit the installations on Dec. 25. Announcement of prize winners will be made immediately thereafter.

It will be worth the time of everyone to drive about the city between now and New Year's day to see the really beautiful lighting systems. A great deal of ingenuity was exercised by some of the contestants and as a result there are some remarkable decorations.

MAN, 73, SAVES HORSE, DOG
When fire broke out in the kitchen of Manchester, England, recently, 73-year-old R. Earl Mason saved his way through blinding smoke and rescued his horse, Dick. Indians Sent To Death In Blizzard To Guard Food

Gallup, N. M. — Indian tradition, which remains as much a part of tribal law as it was 300 years ago when Coronado first visited the Zuni tribe, may be blamed for the death of members of the tribe band which remained with its harvest of pinon nuts rather than desert them to make its way to safety at Indian villages.

Zuni tradition says that the harvest must be guarded until death. And the Zunis who died from cold and exposure as they remained with their harvest through the blizzards which swept across the desolate region surrounding their reservation were merely obeying the laws of their tribe.

The Zunis are proud of the fact, remaining true Indian custom, that their tribe is the largest in the Southwest. Zuni is the largest Indian tribe in the country. As it is as large as Spain's population and soldier Coronado set out from Mexico in 1540 to conquer the "fabled cities of the West."

Coronado's stories of the wealth of the seven cities led the members of the Zuni nation on July 7, 1540, and a part of the tribe went to death. But the Zunis' dramatic action and their stubbornness upon the death of the Zunis, and failed to reach the Spanish army.

Miss Goss says that the Zunis' Indian trading posts were established at Zuni. The Zunis' seven cities were built on a high plateau but their religion and traditions remain in the same.

Polygamy is said to be still in vogue, though not practiced so openly as formerly. Many Zunis believe prefer possession by a rich old warrior with two or three other wives to keep them company to life alone with a younger, but poor, brat. Then, too, mother and daughter are frequently spared the pain of separation by a brave being magnanimous and marrying both.

The annual Indian festivals are still observed with old-time fervor. The Christian religion has made little impression, although there is a tendency to include the Christian God along with their own.

While the Zuni tribe has never been a warlike one, it has managed to hold the barren Indian ground in battle with its more martial neighbors through the centuries. Time

MASSAGE ARMS. BRUSH THEM FOR BEAUTY

Evening gowns are invaluable in the way they greatly reprimand a lady, for not looking her most beautiful.

This is especially true of shoulders and arms. Many a woman takes excellent care of her face, massages her neck and brushes her hair. But she seems to do it all when wearing a long-sleeved negligee that fails to suggest that she is doing something about her shoulders and arms.

It is that upper-arm that most often offends. There are various ways it can be displeasing. An overly plump upper arm and tugging shoulder line never gave anybody a world-wide reputation for beauty. Massage does wonders. But it doesn't do it over night. You must waack and waack and persist and then turn around and desert an overabundance of food. It is a tedious process getting the "gray back" into shape if you have let yourself go. But it can be done.

The largest number of letters asking for beauty advice on shoulders and arms came from rough skin, red skin and skin that refuses to be made up. A woman's beauty is ruined by a perpetual itching skin. It is a perpetual itching skin that is the worst enemy a woman has. It is a good idea to get a good skin "tender" and give it a good massage. This is a good idea. The best way to get the skin into shape is to get a good skin "tender" and give it a good massage. A long massage is the best way to get the skin into shape.

And then the goose flesh skin is the worst enemy a woman has. It is a good idea to get a good skin "tender" and give it a good massage. A long massage is the best way to get the skin into shape.

Give Child Day Off If It Feels Ill

BY ANGELO PATRI

There is such a thing as being school sick. It is possible for a child to be sick of the steady, unremitting demands of the school routine. You notice that his interest lags, that he complains of being tired. He doesn't want to go to school meetings. He doesn't care whether he goes to see his cousin or not. Maybe he will go to the movies but it is without enthusiasm. The mention of school brings a pucker between his eyes and a disgusted complaining, "I don't care about school. It gives me a pain."

When that happens take the boy or the girl out for the day. Go to the city and look at things they like to see. Give them their way for one glad free day. Laugh with them. Trip about with them. Follow their lead. Let them choose where they shall eat and what. Let them buy some little thing they covet. Throw care aside and lift the burden from their weary backs.

The teacher won't like it? Does she like the heavy footed tread of the school-child? Does she like his marks of sixty and fifty-five? His sleepy attention and his sulky growls? Not a bit of it. Then say no more about it and take the child off for a lark.

Don't say a word about school all day. Forget it. The child will not mention it unless you do and you will be making a mistake. School is a confining kind of labor. It demands complete surrender of body and mind to its schedule. Its routine, its work. If the child is growing fast he gets very tired and thus day out will rest him more than any number of school holidays coming along in the accustomed way.

The unexpected break is what helps. A day off right in the middle of school work is like a gift from the fairies. There is an uplifting joy in that kind of a day that is a wonderful tonic to the body and a miraculous stimulant to the mind.

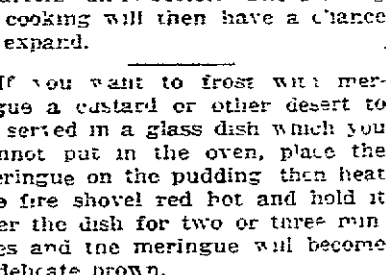

Have no fear of losing time. You are making time. When a child has stuck fast on a dead level of bare passing marks with now and then a failure he isn't going to gain anything by plodding along in the same old way. He needs a break in the routine. When he gets it his whole being is refreshed. He returns to his work in a better attitude and things improve. There is great inspiration in the thought that freedom and affection and understanding be just at hand ready on the instant to rescue one from a too steady grind.

Sometimes the child who comes to a standstill in school needs not only a day off, but a doctor. Don't be so shy of the family physician. I find that children have no better friend than the family physician who helps them into the world. He knows more about them than anybody else, even their parents. If you give him a chance to keep in touch with the youngsters so that they feel free to go to him in times of stress, and if he is wise enough to treat their minds as well as their bodies, your children will profit and much of their trouble will be lifted from their shoulders.

Don't, if you want your child to do better work, drill him for hours and hours on the subject he failed in at school. If he could do that work he would. Give him a day out, let him gather himself together and take counsel with himself, and he will do better. And don't grudge him a day off.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

MANICURE AT HOME TO CUT DOWN EXPENSES

BY ALICIA HART

If you are in a saving mood, one thing you can do to be beautiful and yet thrifty is to give yourself manicures.

You probably have a manicure set. If you haven't, you can get your equipment for little money. There are some scientifically assembled sets that give you the elementary implements for little cost.

Just in case you haven't ever given it much thought, as to what should constitute a manicuring equipment, here is a list of necessities. Orange wood sticks, cotton, nail bleach, cuticle salve or just plain olive oil, cuticle remover, cuticle scissors, emery boards, whiter for under the nails, enamel or polish, and a real good nail brush.

If you decide to do your own nails, you will find it helpful to give them a thought every night. Wash them carefully, dry them carefully, then apply one oil or a cuticle salve to each finger in turn, pushing back the cuticle carefully. One of the best cuticle helps is rose salve, because it is fragrant and pleasanter to use than olive oil.

Should anyone consider making you a present of a manicuring set, you might suggest one of the new travel ones that comes in a pleasing case, each article packed in scientifically, with no useless gadgets but a real appreciation of what is needed.

When you begin home-manicuring, set the days you intend doing them with yourself. Often if you use a buffer and a bit of polish on top of your liquid enamel it keeps them beautiful longer. This kind of thing you learn through experimentation, however.

BUSINESS PLACES TO CLOSE FRIDAY

Employees to Gather Around Family Hearths to Celebrate Christmas

The trials of business will be forgotten Friday, Christmas day, when Appleton families gather 'round the hearth to burn the Yule log.

There will be little or no activity in business places. The courthouses will remain closed all day, and the doors of Appleton business establishments will be locked.

The three Appleton banks and the First Trust Co. will be closed all day, not resuming business until 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

With the exception of special delivery service which is always in effect, the postoffice will be closed all day. The last employee will leave at midnight tonight and there will be no one on duty until midnight Friday, according to postal officials. The lobby, however, will be open all day Friday.

The city hall and public library also will be closed Friday so employees can spend the day with their families.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

"THE window scene?" Sue repeated Corinne's words. "I don't know what you are talking about." But she did. She knew that her sister referred to the casual minute when she had been looking down into the street, at the window and Harry had swung her around and asked her if she was worrying because of the break between Jack and his father. To Corinne it might have looked as though personal interest was back of it all. She might have thought: . . . But it was foolish! Corinne should have more sense than that! Harry's face was honestly puzzled. Jack looked a little amazed.

The next second Sue wished that she had admitted what Corinne meant and explained. Just laughed it off. For Corinne went on her dark eyes blazing furiously in her white face.

"You were at the window. And Harry came over. And, well, did you ever see two silhouettes on a movie screen? I was down in the street in the car. Oh, yes, I followed you. Bob drove me. I decided to meet you at the station so he brought me along. Now will you explain what it means?"

Harry had jumped to his feet. His face was cold and set and his eyes were stern.

"Corinne! That will do. You are being foolish! You don't know what you're saying! Why, that's the most impossible. . . ."

"But I saw you. . . ."

Jack interrupted. "You're excited, Corinne. You used your imagination. And if Harry wanted to give Sue a brotherly kiss—"

"But he didn't!" Sue interrupted now. "You know he didn't, Jack. This is the craziest thing! He came over and asked me if I was worried about you and your father. He said I looked like it. And he swung me around from the window when he did it. That is what Corinne saw. Nothing else. This is the silliest, most impossible thing I ever heard of!"

"Oh, yes?" Corinne laughed harshly. "No wonder you don't want to talk about it. I wouldn't either! But I'm going to get it settled. You used to be engaged to Harry, you know."

"I haven't forgotten," Sue said quietly. "But that is all over."

"So I thought . . . until tonight," Corinne came back.

Harry interrupted. "See here, Corinne, I won't have guests in our home insulted like this. It has to stop."

"Guests insulted? But you don't care what they do to your wife. You are helping them along. Jack mean you are helping Sue. Jack wasn't in on it. He didn't have anything to do with it. And Sue pretends she is so crazy about him that she can't even see another man. Pretends!"

"Corinne! You know that you are inventing a lot of lies!" Sue's voice was as cold as her sister's.

"I don't know what you are getting by with," Harry said. He knows that you're excited, that's all. Let's forget this and then, if you must talk about it in the morning."

"You are trying to get out of it, aren't you?" Corinne threw the words at her sister. "But you can't! I'm going to settle it now!"

"Settle what, and settle it how?" Jack said kindly. "Corinne, you ought to go to bed. You need sleep!"

But under his voice Sue caught the thread of worry. Not because she was involved. He knew the silliness of such an accusation, Sue was sure. But because of the embarrassment to which Corinne was putting them. Sue made up her mind suddenly.

"NEXT: Sue and Jack leave."

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

ADVICE OF OUTSIDER FATAL TO THIS SORT OF EXPERIMENT

Dear Miss Vane: Some time ago my wife told me frankly that she was losing her love for me, and that since we had no children she proposed to go away and set whether a change would do her any good. She did not want a divorce at once but said that she was going to find out how it was to get along without me. She has been away for two months now and still writes me affectionate letters, telling me what she is doing, etc. I love her dearly and want her back at all costs, but my relatives say I should tell her to stay away because she has treated me like this. They are all very sympathetic to me, and so I have asked your advice. All my friends whose advice I have asked, and all of them tell me to let her go. So I feel that if I let her come back to me, she would be making a fool of me. What do you think?

HARRY H.
You shouldn't have taken the whole world into your confidence when you decided on this experiment. Nothing can be more fatal to an eventual reconciliation than the knowledge that friends and relatives are standing around watching, and ready to pounce at the slightest symptoms of forgiveness on your part.

If you kept the whole thing to yourself and explained your wife's absence on ordinary grounds, perhaps you wouldn't be so doubtful now about the outcome of this experiment.

You love your wife and there is a possibility that she still loves you. There may be a hundred reasons for her present mood. She may be over-preserved, so that at the first feeling of discontent she began to think about separation and divorce. She may have become suddenly romantic, and begun to think that life had cheated her of romance because you and she had settled down to a rather humdrum way of living. She may not have needed a change—and I rather doubt it.

But in any event, your matter should rest between you and her. You two

Menasha Good Fellows Aid
More Than 100 Needy
Families in City

Menasha — Christmas baskets, containing food, clothing, and toys were to be distributed to more than 100 needy families in Menasha Thursday. The Menasha Good Fellows, assisted by the Menasha chapters of Red Cross, the American Legion and Auxiliary, unemployment committees and other organizations, collected, sorted, and prepared material for the Christmas baskets during the past few weeks, and were to be assisted by boy scouts of troop 9 and city employees in the work of distribution.

A substantial contribution was received by the Good Fellows Thursday from the Menasha committee on unemployment relief, appointed by Mayor N. G. Remmel and headed by R. E. Tinkens. The money will be utilized for further relief work in the city.

Security information relative to the activities of all relief organizations in the city, the Good Fellows have furnished a report of clarity work. Although the work is intended during the holiday season, proper relief activities are continued by the Good Fellows throughout the entire year.

The two men were given overcoats by the welfare workers and in return worked steadily Wednesday and until 11 o'clock Thursday evening, stayed at the Menasha police station during the night and were on the job early Thursday morning. More than 100 Christmas baskets, containing food, toys, and clothing, were distributed in Menasha today under the direction of the Good Fellows.

JUDGE CONSIDERS
PENSION CASES

More Than 160 Applications
Reviewed in County Court at Oshkosh

Neenah — Two full days have been devoted to consideration of old age pension cases by County Judge MacDonald. This work has rapidly come to be an important part of the tasks of the court, according to the judge.

Hearings so far have consisted entirely of a review of more than 160 old cases, of which several are from the twin cities. About five applications will be heard next Wednesday.

A new feature of the administration of this work results from recent action of the legislature making it possible to transfer title to property owned by pension recipients to the county, within the direction of the court.

Provided the judge considers the case a proper one for such action, the property is transferred to the custody of the court to remain under court management in all particulars relating to transaction of business.

Everything that is necessary for the protection and preservation of the property in such a case is to be handled by the judge. This law has already been invoked here, in cases where title to land, property in clear title to the present time, no property encumbered by mortgage has been taken over.

The purpose of this statute, it is explained, is for protection of the county in event of death of the pensioner, or some other circumstance. In event termination of the arrangement is rendered necessary, the county is to retain the amount paid to the pensioner during the period, plus interest at 3 per cent, and the remainder is to be returned to the individual or his estate. If this were not done, there would be many instances where beneficiaries of pensioners, persons who had not contributed to support of the pensioner, would be able to claim the pensioner's entire property, with no return of money to the county.

Young Count

Maybe this young man will grow up to become an animal trainer. He is the nephew of a great grandfather, Count Apponyi, "the grand old man of Hungary." Anyhow, it's a toy dog that most interests 4-year-old Count Albert Apponyi as he appears in this picture.

needed in a much wider field than Germany alone.

The experts struck up an optimistic note in the section dealing with Germany industry.

"Although it is impossible to fix a date," they said, "it is none the less certain it (prosperity) will ultimately be restored, with the assistance of the measures suggested by the committee." The report also observed that "every period of crisis has been followed by a period of prosperity and it is unjustifiable to judge the prospects for the future on the basis of an exceptional period of depression."

Summary by American

The summary was prepared by Walter W. Stewart, American member of the committee, and by Walter Layton, British delegate. Even though the document made no specific recommendations it contained stronger language than was expected here.

The question of unconditional reparations annuities, which the committee was not empowered to touch, was not directly referred to, but it was stated "the committee would not consider it had fully accomplished its task if it did not draw the attention of the governments to the unprecedented gravity of the crisis, the magnitude of which undoubtedly exceeds the 'relatively' short depression" envisaged in the Young plan, to meet which the measure of safeguard contained therein were designed.

Mr. Stewart said he had a free hand in the negotiations and there had been no communication between him and Washington. In answer to a question he said the references to a "broadway" in the communiqué issued last October by President Hoover and Premier Laval after their conversations in Washington.

Asked whether the recommendation for adjustment of war debts as well as reparations was compatible with the views of the administration at Washington, he said he thought "there is the same difference between the language of the report and the administration's views as between the order on the moratorium approved by congress and the administration's opinions."

Most delegates seemed disappointed because no definite recommendation was written into the report. The French and their supporters were pleased at having passed the question of what must be done over to the conference of governments that is tentatively slated for some time next month.

as far as can be judged from the brief summary the report is "not so bad as feared." There is not a single clause, he said, adding the reparations question with responsibility for Germany's financial and economic tribulations.

He also observed the report practically invites the United States to furnish a counterpart of the delays and reductions from which Germany will benefit eventually.

WANTS ACTION

Loosemouth, Scotland — (P) — Prime Minister MacDonald, informed here today of the report of the Young plan committee on reparations at Basel last night, said:

"The report shows quite plainly that the governments ought to meet without a day's unnecessary delay. For God's sake, let us meet at once. Great Britain is ready."

LITTLE BRITISH COMMENT

London — (P) — The importance attached by London newspapers to the report of the Young plan committee at Basel was indicated this morning by the headlines and heavy type used, but there was very little comment on the committee's report.

Greater attention, for the moment, was given to the United States senate's ratification of the moratorium, the news of which came too late for comment yesterday morning.

The Times merely pointed out that the Basel report goes to the world bank and the governments concerned and will be the text for discussions at the coming international conference on reparations. For this reason, it said, the outlook for this conference is more promising than it has been.

Selecting the outstanding points of the report, the News Chronicle said: "A catastrophe is inevitable if these questions are not now treated by the various governments in the light of economic law." An international conference to review the whole problem of reparations and war debts, it said, is the logical outcome and can not be long delayed.

Dealing with ratification of the moratorium, the Times said the danger which would have arisen if it were refused has at least been averted and the world has a respite during which it must find, if it can, a solution of the difficulties menacing all countries involved.

"These difficulties are so complicated," it said, "and they raise so many controversial issues that it seems hopeless to expect that a final solution will be discovered, or at any rate accepted at once. It is felt there can be no final settlement of the reparations problem as long as opinion in the United States is so uncompromising as the recent debates in congress indicate."

gone Bay team, captained by H. Schmidt, 13 and 5. In the opening period the score was 2 and 0 for Sturgeon Bay. In the second Erdmann came through with four field goals and one free throw, while Neenah sunk a free throw making the score 11 and 1 at the half. Neenah made four points in the third quarter and nothing in the last while Sturgeon Bay tallied one point in each of the last two periods.

The games will be resumed when school sessions start again on Jan. 4.

FAVOR CANCELLATION

Manchester, Eng. — (P) — Commenting on the report of the Young plan committee at Basel last night, the Manchester Guardian said today:

"The question has been, not whether Germany can pay, but how deftly the committee would recommend a complete moratorium, as British public opinion would prefer, cancellation of reparations and war debts."

"In the last week it worked under the shadow of the American congress and the uncompromising declarations of the French government. Its actual recommendations will probably disappoint those who had looked, perhaps unreasonably, for a gold lead in detail."

"But in its setting out of incontestable facts and in its insistence that an adjustment of all reparations and war debts to the troubled situation of the world is the only lasting step capable of restoring confidence, it gives the key to the conference of governments."

"The report will strengthen the hands of those governments that are determined the conference shall lead to more than a temporary measure of relief."

IS NOT SOLUTION

Berlin — (P) — The German government's official reaction to the report of the Young plan committee at Basel was voiced in statements by Chancellor Brüning and Finance Minister Herman Dörmann.

The chancellor said that taking into consideration what was expected of the committee, the report could be called satisfactory, although it fell short of offering a large minded solution of the finance problem.

He emphasized two points. The first was that the report was a "less clear-cut statement than the Young report, and the second that it was satisfactory to note that it succeeded in brushing aside what had crystallized out of the reports of Parker Gilbert as world opinion on the Reich's financial position."

That the report was less clear than the Young report was to be expected, he said, since the committee is the juridical instrument of the Young plan. It was hard, he said, for the German representatives to carry out their task within those lines so that the true situation should be brought fully to light. They succeeded in this, he said, and that was the vital point.

Voicing the German point of view, Herr Dörmann said:

"First, the Young plan has been outdistanced by events. It rested on premises which failed to materialize. Second, these premises had the props taken from under them by the fact that the states with which Germany has trade relations, and to whom the signatories of the plan chiefly belonged, acted in their trade policies oppositely to what they should have done according to the meaning of the plan."

CONTINUE GAMES IN INTRAMURAL TOURNEY

Neenah — The Clintonville team of the high school intramural tournament in progress at the school gymnasium defeated the Wausau team Wednesday evening 6 and 5. The winners secured two points by baskets in each of the first, third and fourth quarters, while the losers tallied three points in the first quarter and two in the third quarter. Alfie is captain of the winning team and Halfstrom is captain of the losers.

The Neenah team, captained by Wruck, was defeated by the Sturgeon Bay team, captained by H. Schmidt, 13 and 5. In the opening period the score was 2 and 0 for Sturgeon Bay. In the second Erdmann came through with four field goals and one free throw, while Neenah sunk a free throw making the score 11 and 1 at the half. Neenah made four points in the third quarter and nothing in the last while Sturgeon Bay tallied one point in each of the last two periods.

The games will be resumed when school sessions start again on Jan. 4.

Tomorrow, peace settles over a troubled world, men's hearts are at peace.

It is on this most beautiful of days that we want to express our thanks and appreciation to our many friends throughout the valley.

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE
Most stories have a single hero, but this is a story of three heroes—or even four—this story of how Appleton high school basketball team last night won its third conference game from Manitowoc high school in an overtime period, 16 and 15.

One hero is Jimmy Murphy who last night suggested, when he was asked to go into the game when Bill Peotter's trick knee tightened up, that Howard Bowley was a better shot and might work better while Bobbie Rule played guard, and that's just about the way things went.

Another hero was this wee youngster Bowley who came three points for the home club and was the spark that set the gang going when it staged a great rally in the fourth quarter.

Still another was Bobbie Rule who stepped up to the free throw line with his team trailing by two points, with four seconds of play left in the game and tied the count at 15 all.

And the other was Emmett Mortell who tossed a free throw on Williamson's technical foul in the overtime period, said point being good for the margin of victory.

Where there are heroes, there usually are villains, but in basketball they can't very well be called that and therefore they are "goats." And because Manitowoc lost two Manitowoc boys must be the "goats."

Koebeke Star and "Goat"
The first victim was Koebeke, a great youngster who played the outstanding game of the evening and who had to be a victim of fate and foul Bobbie Rule as he attempted a field goal in the last half minute of play. The foul also was Koebeke's fourth of the game.

The other victim was Manitowoc's captain, Williamson, who let his temper get away with him and when Referee Allan Davey called him for traveling he threw the ball on the floor with such force it bounced high into the air and into the crowd. The referee promptly assessed a technical foul on the youngster and then Mortell made the point for Appleton.

Last night's win gave the Orange undisputed lead in the Valley conference. West Green Bay, defeated a week ago by Shoeborn upset the dope last night by trimming Oshkosh high school at the latter city, 20 and 12. The Sawdust city team previously had tied with Appleton for the lead. East Green Bay beat Fond du Lac, 18 and 14 in the other conference game last night.

To say the game was a thriller in putting things mildly—it was a riot and a tornado all mixed in one. It featured good basketball, bad basketball, short shots and long ones, an unruly and highly partisan crowd, a technical foul against Appleton coach, baskets made in the last fraction of a minute, displays of bad temper and sent a fair sized crowd home talking to itself and mumbling incoherently. And of course it was a great disavowment for those two Manitowoc youngsters whose personal fouls gave Appleton three points at crucial moments.

Lead 6-4 At Half
Two field goals in the first quarter gave Appleton a 4 and 1 lead and the half ended 6 and 4 for Appleton with both teams getting a field goal.

Close guarding on the part of the Shipbuilders kept the Orange from advancing the ball except to pass in to Peotter at center for one counter and a drive of Mortell's that vexed another.

The third quarter saw Appleton a mile in the air, so to speak, with most of the squad playing the man rather than the ball, generous use of the hips or jumbo balls, charging, rushing tactics on defense that enabled the Shipbuilders to evade the maddened Appleton live and pass the ball around with ease. During this period Koebeke, Manitowoc forward, crashed through with three field goals and a free throw, one of the tosses a long heave, others the result of nice passing and team work. Manitowoc scored 10 points during the period while all Appleton got was a couple free tosses.

Joe Verrier opened the fourth quarter for Appleton with a neat basket on a pass from the center of the floor. A few minutes later Bill Peotter came down hard on his back knee and left the game. Bowley going to forward, Mortell to center and Rule to guard.

Bowley Arrives
The arrival of Bowley was like water to a dying man and the Orange sprinted around much better with the little fellow cracking the hoop for a field goal and a few seconds later a free toss all of which brought the score to 15 and 12 with Manitowoc still leading.

Joe Verrier then was fouled and he dropped the leather through the hoop and the score was 15 and 13 for Manitowoc. After a maneuver about the floor Bobbie Rule broke free and dribbled toward the basket for an open shot. Koebeke have in

PHILLIES FIXED FOR CHAMPIONSHIP RACE

Revise Outfield Lineup; Infield and Pitching Staff Looks Good

(Note—This is another of a series of major league shakeups and prospects for 1932.)

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia—(AP)—A drastic shake up in the outfield, where it is hoped to develop a suitable pair of running mates for Chuck Klein, features the Phillies' rebuilding program for 1932.

Their infield looks good and they are well fixed for pitchers and catchers.

As his most spectacular move toward moulding a stouter outfield, Shotton shipped Russell "Buzz" Arlett to Baltimore in exchange for Russell Scarnier, former Red Sox gardener.

Doug Taft, acquired from Atlanta last summer in time to do some fancy left fielding, is a possibility for a regular job. He hit .370 for Atlanta. Another on whom Shotton counts heavily is George Davis, a .345 hitter purchased from St. Paul. The club also recalled Hal Lee from Atlanta, where he led the Southern association in batting in his few weeks there.

Only one infielder has been added to the roster. George Knobe was drafted from New Orleans but his chances of beating out Dick Bartell at shortstop appear faint. Les Malton, who hit .209 in his first season is expected to fill the bill at second. Pinky Whitney and Don Hurst are fixtures at third and first.

Of five new pitchers, the most likely prospect appears to be Roy Hansen, a giant southpaw recalled from Dallas. He was .17 and lost 7 last year. Edgar Holley was purchased from Kansas City, where he won 14 and lost 12. Robert Adams, who pitched two one-hit games for Richmond last year, Chester Nichols, recalled from St. Paul, and Bill Hargrove, signed as a free agent, complete the list of newcomers.

Phil Collins, Ray Benge, Steward Bolen, Chick Dudley and Hal and Jim Elliott are veteran members of a staff that acquitted itself very well last season.

The heavy hitting Virgil Davis again will do most of the catching, but the club is giving him a promise, understanding in Al Todd, drafted from Dallas.

Incidentally the penalty was the second technical foul in the last two years in which Appleton featured. This time, however, the advantage was the Orange's. Last spring it was Marquette's when Appleton took a fourth time out and lost what might have been a clear claim to the valley championship.

Nine Personal Fouls on Each
The personal fouls and one technical foul were called on each team. Appleton made eight free tosses and missed six. Manitowoc made five and missed nine. In the matter of field goals Appleton scored but four compared to five for Manitowoc. In Appleton's field goals, free throws and field goals were identical to those last week with Fond du Lac.

Guy Bush
spat-ters the gas this winter

Chicago—(AP)—Take it from Guy Bush, star pitcher for the Cubs, you can't fool the newspaper photographers.

Bush bought a gasoline filling station to keep himself busy during the winter months and invited the photographers out to see for themselves just how he had changed from a baseball player to a hard working oil man.

The photographers came up with a snappy cut line:
"Mr. Bush spat-ters the gas."
For the pictures displayed guy wearing fancy spats while pouring out gas.

U.S.C. Trojans Prepare For Battle With Tulane

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS
Copyright 1931
LOS ANGELES—(CPA)—Southern California's powerful Trojans resumed work Monday, after a full week's rest in preparation for the New Year's day game with Tulane in Pasadena's Rose Bowl. In their first workout for the Tulane battle the Trojans gave indications of needing only a few practices to lead the same form they showed in beating Notre Dame and the "Big Five" of the Pacific coast states.

The Trojans are a veteran team and a lot of Howard Jones' greatest warriors are to play in their last game against Tulane. Such teams often lose the wear of the game particularly after a hard season and "back away" to a coach's oft-quoted "The Trojans are not a hot set of players" through Monday's work with the enthusiasm of a group of sophomores and still show signs of being for the game.

Want to Beat Tulane
The Trojans are tremendously eager to defeat Tulane. A victory over the "Big Five" would climax one of the best seasons in the history of Southern California football. Howard Jones called this his greatest Trojan cheer and his men want to make good on that exclamation against Tulane the unbeaten champions of the South.

JACOBS, NATE LEWIS FAIL TO CLOSE MATCH
New York—(AP)—After a couple of days of talking, Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, and Nate Lewis, Chicago Stadium matchmaker, have come out to report no action has been taken.

The whole proposition for Schmeling to defend his heavyweight title against Mickey Walker in Chicago this winter was called off yesterday when Lewis refused to put up a $50,000 forfeit when he asked for a delay in the proceedings.

Jacobs asked the forfeit as a guarantee that after waiting until after the Illinois state legislature reconvenes Jan. 5, the body would pass an amendment to the state boxing laws making 15 round bouts legal. The champion insists on fighting over that route and Jacobs did not want to take a chance of losing out on other propositions while waiting for an event which might not take place.

BROOKLYN STAR IS OUT OF HOSPITAL
New York—(AP)—Del Basonette, Brooklyn first baseman, is out of the hospital after an operation which was expected to strengthen his throwing arm. The arm was tightly bound when he left the hospital yesterday and it will be some time before the success of the operation is determined.

Q. I have always been told not to lead with my right. This advice must have been told to others. As surprise moves are a part of the boxing game, don't you think that by doing the unexpected I can get over a hard blow?
A. Yes. This only holds good when you are boxing a man who is not alert. You may get away with in nine times out of ten but if your opponent counters properly you will find it does not pay to break the rules.

Q.—How much has Tony Canzone earned in the prize ring? Has he saved any of his earnings?
A.—About $300,000. Yes, Canzone has made wise investments and saved most of his money.

Q.—Why does not the rule against massplay in football apply to forming wedges on receipt of kick-offs?
A.—Because the wording of the present rule does not prohibit interference from forming compactly on kick-offs.

Hair Pulling
banned when house of david plays

Chicago—(AP)—The Taylor Trunk girls of Chicago can't pull the braided locks of the House of David boys any more and get away with it.

Before the long braided, bewitched boys from Beaton Harbor, Mich., renewed their basketball wars with the girls this season, they complained that the girls had been getting too much of a kick out of yanking their hair. So the leaders of the two teams got together and decided hair pulling would constitute a foul hereafter.

The two teams meet again tomorrow night.

ROCKNE DEATH OUTSTANDING SPORTS EVENT

Given Vote of 96 Out of 131
Writers in Associated Press Poll

Note: This is the last of four stories featuring the views of the nation's sports editors and writers on the athletic high spots of 1931. The accompanying story is in response to the associated press query: "What was the outstanding sports news story of the year?"

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK (AP) — It has been nine months since the last day of March, 1931, when a transport passenger plane crashed near Bazaar, Kansas, with Rockne among its victims, but this stunning tragedy still is recalled vividly by the nation's sports experts as the biggest news story of the year.

"This was not only a nationally first page story," wrote a sports editor, "but it was also an event which reached newspapers in all corners of the globe and affected millions who had come to know Knute Rockne as one of the most dynamic leaders in American athletics."

In the Associated Press national poll of sports editors and writers on the salient features of the athletic year, 96 out of 131 named the death of Rockne as the biggest sports news story and the most far-reaching, in its effect, of any development of 1931.

Burke Triumph Second

For those who confined themselves to looking at the competitive side for the biggest news story of the year, the choice covered a wide field. Seven named the marathon golf triumph of Billie Burke, who went 144 holes to beat George Von Elm for the United States open golf championship at Toledo. Four experts each picked the world series and Southern California's football victory over Notre Dame as the outstanding story. Next in importance, on the basis of ballots, were the Schmeling-Stribling heavyweight fight at Cleveland, the Gar Wood-Kare Don speedboat race for the Harmsworth trophy and the baseball exploits of Pepper Martin in the world series.

Although they were not given actual votes in the poll, the Lenz-Culbertson contract bridge match and the resignation of Chick Meehan from the football coaching job at New York university were mentioned by sports observers as conspicuous events in the year's waning months.

The results of the Associated Press poll on the outstanding sports news story of 1931:

- Death of Knute Rockne 96
- Billie Burke's victory in the open golf championship 7
- Southern California's football victory over Notre Dame 4
- World series 4
- Pepper Martin's exploits in world series 3
- Schmeling-Stribling heavyweight championship fight 3
- Harmsworth Trophy speedboat race 3
- Death of Dick Sheridan, Army football player 1
- Malcolm Campbell's world speed record for automobiles 1
- Death of Sir Thomas Lipton 1
- Suspension of Hack Wilson by Chicago Cubs 1
- 500-mile Indianapolis auto race, won by Lou Schneider 1
- Kentucky Derby, won by Twenty Grand in record time 1
- Pitching of Hallahan in world series 1
- Reduction of major league player limit, cut in salaries, etc. 1
- Pennsylvania's shakeup in athletic policy 1

"Duke Of Nowhere" Wishes Appleton Merry Christmas

Norman St. Clair, self styled "Duke of Nowhere," and international hobo extends Christmas greetings to Appleton. He says he likes it here and although he plans to spend a few days in several lake shore cities during the Christmas holidays, he will be back for another visit soon.

A veteran of a trip around the world and a skirmish with a railroad detective in Kansas City in which he came out second best, St. Clair has lived in Appleton and worked here for a time. Recently he was laid off, so he probably will move on for a few weeks.

St. Clair is a hobo, he informs you, a hobo being a gentleman who wanders about the country doing odd jobs and working his way along. He usually has a few nickels and dressed fairly well, thereby keeping out of the class of the tramp who cares nothing about how he dresses and steers clear of work. The lowest ranking wanderer, in the language of St. Clair, is the bum usually a canned heat addict who rates lowest in the wanderers' world.

Gets New Rubbers

Sporting a new pair of rubbers, which, the reporter guessed correctly, were given him at Neenah, a city known as a "sure shot" for rubbers and overalls, St. Clair hinted he was off for another place which is a "sure shot" for a pair of mittens or gloves.

St. Clair rode into Appleton pretty much fagged out several months ago, he says, after his jaunt around the world which he accomplished by riding trains and stowing away on four ships. He was given a room at a local hotel and after several days of rest, during which time the last of his winter clothes were peeled from his frozen in Siberia, he went out and sought a job.

An Appleton meat market gave him work, outfitted him in good clothes, and he worked there for several months. When it became necessary to lay him off, St. Clair started for Tulsa, Okla., but a railroad detective caught up with him at Kansas City, clubbed him, and sent him to the Kansas City general hospital with a fractured skull, broken jaw and a wound on the head that was closed with 14 stitches.

Wounds Now Healed

The wounds are pretty well healed now, St. Clair says, adding that he isn't looking for sympathy. "All will be all right with every one of us in the end, the silver lining is not far in the offing," he says.

St. Clair also has a good word for the Outagamie county sheriff's department which, he says, runs a clean-up-to-date jail, and one that is a "sure shot" for a good bath and a clean bunk for a night.

The "Duke of Nowhere" says: "I just wish to avail myself of the opportunity to express my gratitude to my friends, and to the up to date sheriff's department, for past kindnesses and to wish them all a Merry Christmas and a Joyous New Year."

The Duke says he worked regularly until the stock crash of 1929. Since then he has been wandering about the world.

Washington — Queer things are happening in politics.

1. The Democratic party, always broke in other years this far in advance of an election, is well heeled. Thanks, of course, to one man — John Jacob Raskob.

2. The Republican party, accustomed to rolling in comparative wealth at all times, can't collect any contributions to speak of and, according to report, barely met its payroll the first of November.

3. The Democratic party, under Raskob's chairmanship, chose the time when the country was girding itself for a mighty program of unemployment relief drives to announce a campaign for contributions whose first objective is to pay off Raskob.

4. Raskob, who bravely created a great furore by calling the national committee together and urging it to declare for a wet platform, now circularizes 30,000 past contributors to the party treasury and demands that they vote in a party poll for or against a referendum on prohibition.

Little Johnny Raskob, you observe, is responsible for many of those queer things.

Little Johnny Raskob, in fact, is himself about the queerest thing that has happened to American party politics since the Republicans stole the election of 1876 from the Democrats. His party never before had an angel to finance it between campaigns while nearly all others kept their hands in their pockets. Or a chairman who undertook to guide it on a very controversial issue in the way he thought it should go.

You either admire Raskob for his bold statesmanship and his liberality or for his nerve, egotism, obstinate cussedness. If his party straddles the prohibition issue next year it must also stand astride Raskob's prone corpse.

Republicans will hoot because he didn't delay the big $100,000 "victory drive" with its $250,000 "minute men," but they too were sobbing secretly — and usually in vain — for funds from wealthy men who used to contribute.

The Raskob wet-dry questionnaire seems a laudable act insofar as it will sound out the party's rank and file as widely as possible on the era's most controversial issue. How better to get a wide expression than from the 30,000 contributors of 1923 whose names and addresses are on file? In other election years the platform has been left to a few men in a smoke-filled committee room.

Without suggesting that the cards are stacked for Raskob, it does seem that he has not exactly thrown himself and his heart's dearest issue on the mercies of an uncertain quantity. The queerest political development, in fact, would be a dry majority of answers to the questionnaire.

Now it's smart little Raskob's big joke on the "Hoovercrafts" and other very dry Democrats that they can't vote in his poll. More than 35,000 of the 30,000, a glance shows, were in 14 states where the party is definitely wet.

It should also be said that many dry Democrats are not averse to a referendum through popular vote and state conventions on the question of revision or repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

It is not surprising to find the spunky little chairman accompanying the voters in his poll in the letter accompanying the questionnaire.

But you to start when he asks them whether the party platform should "commit" all Democratic members of Congress to vote for submission of the Eighteenth Amendment to the people. It took little Johnny Raskob to do that!

LACK OF JOBS IS WORRYING SOLONS AS ELECTION NEARS

Politicians Become Anxious as Relief Fails to Appear

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — More people have had to worry about the security of their jobs in the last couple of years than in any previous period and there is a corresponding increase of anxiety here among those politicians whose tenure of office depends on the voters.

The jobs of a president, cabinet members, diplomats and a host of minor officials down through hundreds of thousands of postmasters hang on the ability of this Republic to administer to get itself re-elected. In less than a year the 435 representatives and at least 33 senators will also know whether they must join the ranks of the unemployed.

Thus, although the words, actions or votes of members of Congress and other officials may be primarily guided by the urge for job retention, the present employment situation may bring them some scant sympathy which is ordinarily lacking. No one need be carried away by compassion. The point is that these fellows want to hang onto their jobs and salaries in about the same way as the rest of us.

At least half the senators up for re-election next November have something to think about.

Take George McGill of Kansas, a Democrat elected last year by no large majority because many Kansas Republicans were sour on Henry Allen. McGill is filling an unexpired term so he must fight all over again in 1932. Vice President Curtis has been thinking of running against him because it has seemed so easy for any strong Republican to beat McGill. One also hears that Kansas Democrats think they can keep the seat, but McGill's position is far from secure.

The famous Jim Davis of Pennsylvania, former secretary of labor, is on the anxious seat. He also is serving a two-year term. Jim is dry. Boss Bill Vane of Philadelphia, who gave him the Republican primary support which won the job, declares for wet candidates only. Also, Jim made the second senator from Pittsburgh and ancient Pennsylvania custom has always demanded one from Philadelphia.

Otis Glenn of Illinois can well worry about the Democratic plots that Senator Jim Ham Lewis and Mayor Cermak of Chicago will hatch to unseat him, bearing in mind the huge wet Democratic majority which elected Lewis last year. Wesley Jones of Washington, father of the "five and ten" law, has seen his party in the state go wet and now hears that other Republicans are after his seat. Even if he is nominated his Democratic opponent probably will be National Committeeman Scott Bullitt, a wet and a formidable foe.

Sam Shortridge of California, besides wondering whether there will be any Hoover coat-tail to ride in on next year, must build strong fences against Congressman Phil Swing, who will oppose him for nomination with the probable support of Hiram Johnson. Also, some of the boys at home are trying to smoke Sam out on the wet-dry issue. Bingham of Connecticut, since November, 1930, can't be sure whether his state is Democrat or Republican.

Buckley of Ohio, another short-term and a wet Democrat, is up again next year, although he should keep his normally Republican seat. Ex-Senator Cole Blaise of South Carolina is expected to try to unseat his political enemy, Senator Ellison Smith, in Democratic primaries. Broussard of Louisiana has the enmity of politically powerful Governor Senator Huey Long. Fletcher of Florida has done considerable worrying in the past about Congressman Ruth Bryan Owen's senatorial ambitions, which may or may not still be flaming.

Among senators not yet reported as seriously threatened are Brookhart of Iowa, Dale of Vermont, Blaine of Wisconsin, Moses of New Hampshire, Wagner of New York, Morrison of North Carolina, Nye of North Dakota, Smoot of Utah, Watson of Indiana, Barkley of Kentucky, Thomas of Idaho, Black of Alabama, Tydings of Maryland, Norbeck of South Dakota and Odell of Nevada. But they can't tell what may turn up.

GIRLS ASK FOR ROOM SO THEY CAN SMOKE

Madison—(P)—The department of dormitories and commons of the University of Wisconsin today was confronted with a petition signed by 108 of the 131 girls living at Chadbourne hall asking that a room be set aside for smoking.

Early in the semester, the co-eds were given permission to smoke on the dormitory porches. Now that winter's here, the girls said, it's a bit too uncomfortable to smoke on the porches.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

"CAPRICORN"

If December 25th is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 7:50 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 12:30 p. m. to 1:40 p. m., and from 6:50 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 19:15 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 9:10 p. m. to 10:50 p. m.

Astrological tendencies for December 25th: Hindrances in the progress of business chiefly due to causes which date from some time back. A risky time for strenuous sport. Children will give trouble to their parents for the time being. Short journeys are shown.

The child born on this December 25th will be imaginative, to a remarkable degree, and will be inclined to "romance." It will lack the push and energy to live up to the promises of its youth. It will be a born procrastinator, and will never learn the true value of time.

Born on December 25th, you are an idealist with all the hopes and charms and faults of one. You aspired in your youth to scale heights which you will never reach. Your horoscope reveals that your rose-leaves of romance will turn into tea-leaves of routine, domesticity, money-making, and other ordinary and usual things. You have not been able to extract the satisfaction out of life that you expected. You will probably, through necessity, be drawn into commerce, although you are inclined towards the artistic professions.

Your nature is free from stolidity and over-assertiveness. Your manners are free and graceful. You should be able to excel in such amusements as dancing or skating. You will have many friends, and will gain social popularity. Externally, you appear rather worldly, but in your inner life, your heart is always pulling away from externals. A love of philosophy and a tendency towards religious thought is shown. You have very tolerant views and are broad-minded. You are observant and very conscious of what goes on. Changes of occupation and residence are both shown.

From the standard of what a person is, and not what he does, you are a success—neither a saint or genius, but a happy human being.

Successful People Born December 25th:

1. David Hoffman, jurist and historian.
2. Joseph Lovering, scientist.
3. Patrick S. Gilmore, band leader and musician.
4. John Forrest Willon, judge.
5. Benjamin Tucker Tanner, bishop.
6. Francis Blake, inventor.

The spirit of Christmas

THE three Kings brought their gifts to Christ One day in Bethlehem, Though he whose star had been their guide Could make no gifts to them. They asked for nothing in return— Wise men have always known He is more blest who does not seek A favor of his own. So we today must bring our gifts Where empty stockings hang, If we would keep our faith in words An angel chorus sang. A doll and horn and spinning top, Small toys a child-heart sought, May be as shining as the gold The ancient Magi brought.

BANKHEAD FAMILY IS REPRESENTED IN CONGRESS 44 YEARS

One Brother Now in Senate and Another Is in house

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — Tom Heflin has made himself more famous than any other citizen of Alabama, but the Alabama Bankheads go on forever. Alabama, has had a Bankhead in Congress, almost without a break since 1887 and now for the second time has a Bankhead in the House and a Bankhead in the Senate. William B. Bankhead is serving his eighth term in the House, and his brother, John H. Bankhead, is a senator because he defeated Heflin last November by 50,000 votes. They are both sons of the John H. Bankhead who was first a representative and then a senator from Alabama. If a Bankhead-Bankhead bill appears in the next session that's the explanation.

The Bankheads are not exactly colorful figures, being more distinguished as solid, substantial, hard-working citizens, regular in their politics and conservative in viewpoint. For it was Captain Richard Pearson Hobson, hero of the Merriam sinking in the Spanish war, who first defeated the elder John H. Bankhead for Congress and was later himself defeated by William Bankhead. And of course Senator Bankhead is known as the man who licked the famous Heflin. Congressman Bankhead, also, is the father of Tallulah Bankhead, the actress, and of Eugenia Bankhead-Hoyt-Butt-Lee-White, lately reported as about to rid herself of her latest husband.

Senator Bankhead is 59 years old and Congressman Bankhead is 57. Both took degrees at the University of Alabama and law degrees at Georgetown University in Washington. Each began law practice in Alabama at the age of 21.

Senator Bankhead is short, stout, studious and rather bald. He will never take Heflin's place here as a teller of anecdotes, a model for professional southern dress or a sensational windbag. Nor as a flowery orator. He dresses, thinks and acts conservatively and has no great lung power, although he is said to be a good debater and has built up a large corporate and general law practice at home, where he was also successful in operating coal mines. His friends speak fondly of his common sense. He was chairman of the Red Cross drive in Walker County, Ala., during the World War and his previous political experience included election to the Alabama legislature. In 1926 he ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic senatorial nomination against Hugo Black.

Congressman Bankhead is somewhat taller than his brother, somewhat less dignified. The senator's friends, at least, say he is "not as solid." He is more pleasing to the popular taste, however, and well liked in his district. He put on a better show, after years in politics, and is a better orator. In his youth he was clerk of a congressional committee here. The Bankhead boys were raised in an atmosphere of politics and William B. was almost a child when he served in the Alabama legislature. Later he was a city attorney at Huntsville. He was elected to Congress in 1914 and once presided over the House on the same day his father held the gavel in the Senate.

The father of the Bankhead boys was serving in the Alabama legislature as early as 1865 and was elected to Congress in 1887. In 1895 he was defeated by Captain Hobson and the next year was elected to the Senate here by the Alabama legislature to fill a vacancy. There he sponsored a federal aid bill for highways and the "Bankhead Highway," running from Washington to San Diego, was named after him.

Heflin was elected to fill the unexpired term at the death of the elder Bankhead. Now the elder Bankhead's successors in both House and Senate have been succeeded by his two sons. Alabama Democrats last year booted Heflin out of the party and nominated the present John.

Heflin is fighting tooth and nail to keep Bankhead out of the Senate. Various things have been discovered about the election since the Senate started investigating Heflin's charges, but the Bankhead family, pointing to John's majority of 50,000, profess not to be worrying.

Says Wrong Man

Claiming that he is the wrong man, Martin J. McMahon, left, 71-year-old Illinois convict, has gone to court with his plea that he be released from the state penitentiary at Joliet. McMahon, after serving a short sentence on a less serious charge, was identified as Michael Lynch, who escaped from prison in 1890 following sentence for slaying a Chicago policeman. Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach is shown with McMahon above.

20 MEN HIRED TO LAY MAIN IN LIMITS OF CITY

Wet Weather Hampers Progress of Project Along Highway 41

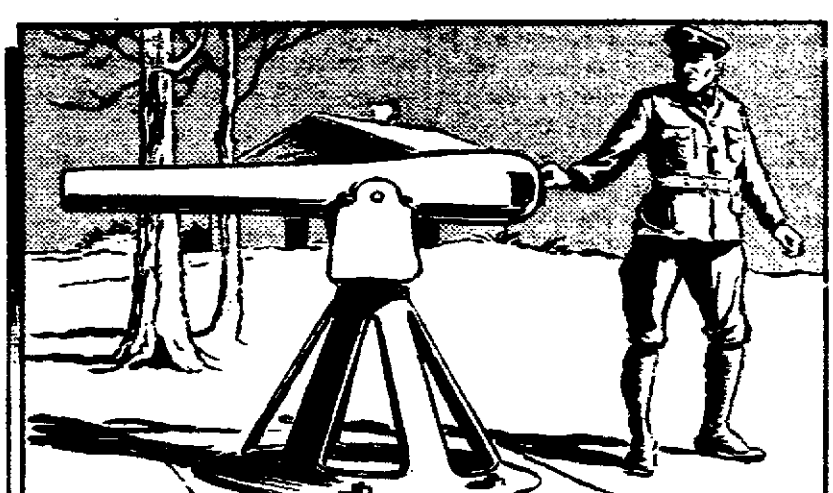

Kaukauna—Installation of a water main extension along Highway 41 near the northeast city limits has been progressing under direction of the city water department. There are 20 men employed on the project, which will require about two weeks to complete. All of the digging is by hand labor. Work has been hampered for the past few days by wet weather.

A pump was used Thursday morning to drain water from the ditches so men could continue their digging. About 250 feet of the pipe already has been placed. The hydrants will be installed, and several hundred feet of pipe remains to be placed.

The extension is a part of a program suggested to the city council by Aldermen G. Smith and W. Cooper. In suggesting the water main extension on Highway 41, Alderman Cooper told the city council that residents along the road would have adequate fire protection when it was completed. Work of placing a sewer also was discussed, but Alderman Cooper told the council while the Pearsa Greely, and Hanson firm of Chicago engineers are surveying the Fox river valley for a metropolitan sewer district, no sewers should be placed, as little is known in which direction the main line of sewers would be placed, if the proposed sewer district results from the survey.

Another extension of the city water main, which was suggested at the time, was a stretch on Fourth st. Sewers also were proposed for this extension. The work will not be done until spring, however, because of a large amount of filling along the street.

"WASTE" LAND USE FOR HOUSING PLAN MAY CUT RENTALS

May Spend $2,000,000 in Civic Advancement Program at Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh is being graded and terraced for development by the Rural Foundation into beautiful homesites to be rented to persons of moderate means. Expenditure ultimately of $2,000,000 is planned by the foundation, as an investment as well as a step in civic advancement.

The dwellings will be laid out according to a plan that will provide wide lawns, gardens, parks and playgrounds. Less than 34 percent of the land will be occupied by buildings.

The site was selected and the type of construction chosen after a study of the city's housing needs and of community planning methods, the foundation announced.

Dwellings Front Parks

The houses will consist of five or seven rooms. They will be designed individually, but all will be built on the same plan. The foundation plans to have the dwellings face away from the streets, fronting on central parks, but the rear of the houses will appear much the same as the front.

Charles B. Lewis, director of the foundation, said it was desired to make the foundation's plans double duty—investing directly for a constructive social purpose without sacrifice of income and without unusual risk to investors.

The amount of the rentals has not been determined, but officers of the organization said they would be moderate.

Lewis said new principles in housing construction on hillside land were expected to show how much of what is considered waste land in Pittsburgh and other cities may be used while developing even higher standards of housing.

Approaching Leap Year Doesn't Scare Kirkland

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright 1931 By Cons. Press
Hollywood —(CPA)—Quite suddenly you mentioned to Alexander Kirkland that 1932 would be leap year. Young Kirkland, blond, six-foot bachelor, New York stage star and newly discovered leading man in pictures, looked interested but not scared. He didn't seem to take it personally.

Besides he had for grandfather an American rear admiral. For grandmother a Spanish belle, for father an American born in Brussels, and for mother an Irish colleen from St. Louis. Moreover, he himself was born in Mexico City and studied painting at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and has lived in southern France. He isn't easily scared.

"Well, why shouldn't women propose?" Kirkland inquired, "and on the other hand, why should they? If there's any fault at all with American women—not," he added hastily, "that there is—it's that they're just a little bit too independent. Independence is a very fine thing in a woman it makes the average man feel a trifle diffident. Not that any one will take my advice, and probably I'm wrong anyhow, but if I were a girl I'd set kind of helpless all through leap year, even when proposing to a man. Of course, a girl that looks helpless in the right way wouldn't ever need to propose. I think perhaps the girls of the South Sea Islands are about as truly feminine as any girls at the present moment. I speak with authority, never having seen the South Sea Islands."

"My great ambition is to buy a Gloucester fishing schooner and explore those south seas by and by. But first I want to realize my second greatest ambition, which is to be a clown in a circus for a year. Boy, that's my idea of a really good time."

"Yes, but how about pictures? You inquired."

"I'm for 'em," said Kirkland, "and I hope this holds good vice-versa, too. But I didn't come out here to get into pictures. I broke into pictures because I broke out."

NO TWO SNOWFLAKES ARE ALIKE, BENTLEY FINDS IN PICTURES

Jericho Resident Spends Lifetime Photographing and Studying Crystals

BY DEXTER H. TEED
Jericho, Vt.—When you sit at a window in your home and watch the first snowflakes of the year drifting lazily down or scurrying before a pranking wind—

When you look out some bright morning and see the beauty of shrubbery and trees and buildings draped with a clean cloak of purest white that makes even ordinary objects appear enchanted—

Then don't forget that up here in the shadow of the Green Mountains of Vermont dwells a man who has devoted 50 years of his life to the study of snowflakes.

It has been his whole career. The first money he ever earned was used to buy apparatus for examining snow. Now, 65 years old, his main interest in life is the same. And so closely is he identified with his work that he is known as "The Snowflake Man"—probably the only one in the world.

390 Designs
By tireless endeavor he has selected and photographed more than 390 distinct patterns of snow crystals. He has recorded for posterity the delicate and dainty beauty of one of Mother Nature's most amazing phenomena—the ever-different designs of snowflakes.

For him it has been an achievement, one that did not seem possible when as a boy of 15 years Wilson J. Bentley announced calmly that he would spend his life studying the beauties of nature that surrounded the farm on which he lived.

When he earned a little money and bought a microscope and a small telescope, his family thought it would be just a hobby that wouldn't last long. But when his mother saw he was in earnest she encouraged him and even bought a better microscope.

Early Efforts Failed
"It was then," Bentley says now, "that I first discovered the great treasures of the snow and with them those of other allied water forms such as frost, ice, dew, clouds, rain and hail."

But those first three years of study were discouraging, practically wasted. Of course he captured many beautiful snow crystals, but when he attempted to draw pictures of them they melted so quickly he failed.

His family, appreciating his efforts, helped him then by buying

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A MISSED SLAM

It developed, when Board 18, which was the seventh hand of the third rubber, was played in the Culbertson-Lenz match, that Mr. Lenz had gone along way to adopt some of the ideas of the Approach-Forcing System (sometimes called the "One over One") in bidding. However, the foundation for suit bids in the official System is apparently the faulty that little correct information is conveyed by the bid of a suit in the exchange of information between the partners.

This is the hand:
South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

1—Mr. Lenz prefers to open with an unbidable suit because his side is vulnerable and he fears the la-

a microscope and camera with which he was able to take enlarged photographs. There were more difficulties but he eventually succeeded. He tells the story in his own words:

"In the first place I am fortunate enough to be located in the one region on earth where occur the greatest number of well-defined cold cyclonic snow falls, and which seems to be the most favorable location for snow crystal study—northern Vermont."

"I had many failures in my first attempts to secure pictures of individual snowflakes, but in my nineteenth year my 'great adventure' began. I learned that snowflakes can be photographed only during the colder snowfalls when the temperature ranges from zero or below to 25 above.

"The crystals are caught on a blackboard, taken indoors to a cold tent dangers in notrump bids under these conditions.

2—Mr. Jacoby, whether purposely or not, does not give the false justified by his cards. In support of diamonds West has 15 honor-tricks, 1 additional playing-trick for the five-card length in spades, 2 tricks for the heart singleton and 1 trick for the four-card length in trumps—a total of 5 playing-tricks, which would justify a Raise to three diamonds.

In the play of the hand a small club was opened, and Mr. Lenz with his magic skill made six. The Slam, of course, could not be bid, as the making of it depends upon the extremely favorable location of outstanding cards. However, a system of bidding which shoots so widely of the mark when a rubber is at stake certainly cannot be recommended for general use. The failure to reach a game on this hand resulted in the loss of the rubber five hands later.

GARDENS TO HONOR BABCOCK'S MEMORY

Madison —(P)—The memory of Stephen Moulton Babcock, inventor of the milk test which bears his name, will be perpetuated in at least 44 states by hollyhock gardens planted from seeds gathered from the late inventor's garden here.

The gardens will be planted on the grounds of colleges of agriculture and experiment stations. In Ohio, the Babcock hollyhock garden will be planted under direction of Dean Alfred Vivian, a native of Iowa-co, Wisconsin. The Colorado Babcock hollyhock garden will be started by E. P. Sandsten, who, when he attended the University of Wisconsin, was a student of Dr. Babcock.

In Oregon, Dean William A. Schoenfeld, and in Massachusetts, Director F. J. Sievers, both former students at the University of Wisconsin and former residents of Milwaukee-co, will start the gardens while in North Dakota, H. L. Walsted, a former Sauk-co resident, will do the planting.

Officials of the University of Göttingen, Germany, where Dr. Babcock completed his training, are planting a Babcock garden in his memory, as are the directors of Tufts college at which the great scientist spent his undergraduate days.

To assist Appleton merchants in meeting effectively certain retail problems made acute by current business conditions, the University of Wisconsin Extension division will conduct a store management conference at Appleton vocational school on Jan. 12 and 13, in cooperation with the vocational school board and the retail division of the chamber of commerce.

The program has been designed to give special application to small and medium sized stores. This will be first of a new series of retail conferences which the Wisconsin division will offer to Wisconsin merchants. Appleton retailers in large numbers participated in the first series one year ago when business building problems of merchants were featured in discussions.

The leaders will be Dean Richard E. Ellingwood and Dr. H. R. Doering, business specialists who conducted the first series.

PLAN NATIONWIDE CONTEST TO REDUCE AUTO ACCIDENTS

Expect Drive Will Be Biggest and Most Constructive Safety Move in Years

Chicago—A nationwide drive to reduce highway accidents, which promises to be the biggest and most constructive campaign for highway safety yet attempted will be launched January 1 by the National Safety Council and a group of national organizations interested in public welfare.

Every village, town and city in the country will be urged to participate. Inter-city safety competition will be the basic inspiration for this "First Annual National Safety Contest." It will run for 12 months.

The determining factor will be not only accident reductions but improvements in traffic law enforcement and progress in safety education and engineering.

Standard report forms will be provided to insure accuracy and designated municipal officials will be required to sign them. The United States Census Bureau will assist the Council statisticians in making computations. The element of luck has been reduced to a minimum through a simple but carefully planned system of grading.

Local Groups Named

Each city will be asked to name an official body to handle local details. It may be the police department, the safety bureau, automobile club, local council or the American Legion or some similar civic group.

Six classifications have been made, based on population, and suitable awards will be made in the early spring of 1933.

The classifications are: Group 1, cities above 500,000 population; group 2, between 250,000 and 500,000; group 3, 100,000 to 250,000; group 4, 50,000 to 100,000; group 5, 25,000 to 50,000; and group 6, all municipalities under 25,000.

Many Features to Watch

"Grading will be made on a point system with the accident record based on a possible 50 points," explains W. H. Cameron, managing director of the National Safety Council.

"Other elements to enter the competition will include accident reporting, traffic engineering, conformity to traffic standards, organization of traffic police, handling traffic cases, child safety progress, school and schoolboy patrol work, traffic safety campaigns and safety organization."

"While traffic accidents are primarily an individual problem, they are also a community problem in the sense that it is the community's responsibility to educate its drivers for safety. Last year 83,000 people lost their lives in motor vehicle accidents and the first 11 months of 1931 show little if any improvement.

"The contest is a challenge to civic pride and it is thought that real progress will be made when every community takes an active interest in this most serious of all safety problems."

"No satisfactory method of reaching the uncontrolled private driver has yet been found. From 1927 to July 1, 1931, the number of private cars in which fatal accidents occurred increased 59 per cent. During the same period the number of buses, trucks and taxis similarly involved decreased 31 per cent.

"The answer is found in the continued education, coupled with disciplinary control, among commercial vehicle operators. This much needed disciplinary control is essential to a lowering of the accident rate among private drivers."

P. Vivian Dunn, twenty-three-year-old violinist, has just been appointed Director of Music to the Royal Marines at Portsmouth, making him the youngest conductor in the British Navy.

Irish people who returned to the old country from the United States in the first half of this year numbered more than double the emigrants who left Ireland in the same period.

SUNSET PASS

Chapter 15
SUSPICIOUS PROSPERITY

LATELY we threw up four more cabins," Preston said, "an' now we're shore comfortable."

The little cabin over by the creek under the largest of the pines was occupied by Alice and Thiry, and they, according to Preston, had just about put that cabin up themselves. But Rock's quick eye gathered at once that Preston or some one of his sons was something of an architect and a most efficient carpenter.

Except the two large cabins, nearest the road, the others were some distance apart. The small empty cabin, where Rock's packs had been left, was off among the trees fully a hundred yards; the next, where Preston's sons, Tom, Albert and Harry, lived, appeared an equal distance farther, and the last, occupied by Range Preston, and some of the other boys, stood close under the north slope of the Pass.

The grassy divide sloped gradually to the west, and down below the level, where cedars grew thicker and the pines thinned out, were the corrals and barns and open sheds, substantial and well built. Another log chute brought running water from the hill. Rock found his white horse in one of the corrals, surrounded by three lanky youths from sixteen to twenty years old. Preston introduced them as the inseparable three, Tom, Albert, and Harry. They had the Preston fairness, and Tom and Harry were twins.

Both money and labor had been lavished on this ranch; and it was something to open the eyes of old-time homesteaders like Slagle. Even prosperity would not have induced Slagle to such extremes of improvement. But then, Rock reflected, Preston must be a hard worker, and he had seven stalwart sons.

"Preston, if I owned this ranch I'd never leave it a single day," was Rock's eloquent encomium.

"Wal, I'd shore hate to leave it myself," returned the other, tersely.

"How many cattle have you?" queried Rock, because he knew this was a natural question.

"Don't have much idee. Ten thousand half, Ash says. We run three herds, the small one down on the Flats, another hyar in the Pass, an' the third an' big herd up in the Foothills."

"Naturally the third means the big job," said Rock.

"Shore will be fer you boys. Thar's a lot of cattle over thar thet ain't mine. Ash said eighty thousand had all told in the Foothills. But thet's his exaggerated figurin'."

"Ges! So many?" In my day half that number would have been a lot. But it's a big country. Who's in on that range beside you?"

"Wal, thar's several heavy owners, like Dabb, Lincoln, Hesbitt, an' then a slew of others, from homesteaders like Slagle an' Pringle to two-bit cowpuncher rustlers. It's sort of a bad mess over thar. An' some of the outfits haven't no use fer mine."

"Ha! Thar's old cowboy breed. You can't ever change it... I know Lincoln. But Hesbitt is a new one on me."

"Yes, he came in soon after me," replied Preston, shortly. His speech, to Rock's calculating perceptions, had lost heartiness and spontaneity. But Rock doubted that he could have observed this subtle little difference had he not come to Sunset Pass pecuniarily stimulated by curiosity.

"Sol Winter told me you'd worked a new wrinkle on the range," went on Rock, matter-of-factly. "Wholesale butcherin'?"

"Yes. Always did go in fer thet. Hyar in this country I first set in killin' an' sellin' to local butchers. Then I got to shippin' beef to other towns not far along the railroad. An' all told I've made it pay a little better than sellin' on the hoof."

"Reckon it's a heap harder work."

"We Preston's ain't afraid of work," said the rancher. "But it takes some managin' as well. I made a slaughter-house out of Slagle's place, an' them we do some butcherin' out on the range."

"What stumps me, Preston, is how you get beef to town in any quantity," responded Rock.

"Easy for Missourians on these hard roads. We got big wagons an' four-hoss teams. In hot summer we drive at night."

"So you're from Missouri!" went on Rock, with geniality. "I sort of figured you were. I once worked with an outfit of Missourians. They have a lingo of their own, something like Texans. Better educated, though."

"My girl Thiry went to school till she was seventeen," Preston spoke with pride.... "Wal, you'll want to unpack an' wash up fer supper."

It was just sunset when Rock came out of the cabin assigned him. Sitting down on the stone steps of the porch, he found there was an open place between the trees permitting unbroken view of the Pass.

Here, striking him like an invisible force in the air, was the wild scene famous among riders all over the Southwest. For riders wandered from range to range, and round camp fires and while on guard or in the bunkhouses they were wont to tell about the outfits with whom they had ridden and the ranges they had known. Rock had been asked about Sunset Pass more than once while he was in Texas. He recalled how he had used to rave. Small wonder!

From Preston's ranch the Pass spread into a wide stretch of grassy knolls dotted by cedars, and grassy flats topped by cedars, and grassy ridges sloping like hog-backs down from the walls of gray and green. Ten miles and more of the most beautiful meadow and pasture land in the West Dots and strings and bunches of cattle gave life to the scene.

Beyond the grassy levels and mounds the Pass changed to a verdant floor, only here and there showing a glint of open park. The walls leaned away, less rugged and rocky. From the league-wide forested floor, then, the Pass restricted to one third that width and began its magnificent step by step, up and up, to open into the golden foothill country.

Beyond and above the foothills rawned the western end of the Pass, the grand gap that split the mountain range and gave the felicitous name to this beautiful rent in the crust of the earth.

A bell called Rock to supper. When he reached the cabin to find the Preston boys straddling the benches, it was to be accosted by the rancher.

"Say, cowboy, when you hyar the supper bell you come a-rarin'. Never wait for a secon' bell."

"Did you have to ring a second bell for me?" queried Trueman, in surprise.

"I did—or you'd have missed your supper," returned Thiry. She was standing near where Preston sat at the head of the table. Her face seemed to catch the afterglow of sunset, and her eyes, too.

"Thanks... I'm sorry to be late. I didn't hear..." Rock, you set hyar on my right. The'tt put you across from Thiry. Hope it doesn't spoil your appetite."

"Dad, instead of crackin' jokes you should introduce Mr. Rock to the other boys," reproved Thiry calmly.

"Scuse me. Let's see. Are we all hyar?... Wal, Ash!"

"He rode off somewheres," replied one of the boys.

"Wal, Rock, meet Range Preston, an' thet's his real name... an' Scoot which is short for some handle Mr. gave him once... an' Boots whose proper name is Frank... Boys, thet is Trueman Rock."

Preston's humorous introduction and Rock's friendly response, elicited only a "howdy" from each of these older sons.

"Reckon we can eat now," added Preston. "Set down, Rock an' pite in."

Presently Rock stole a glance at Thiry, to catch her eyes on him so happy he did not dare risk any other. But he could see her plate and that the food on it diminished slowly. She was not hungry. He coming to Sunset Pass had unaccountably troubled her. It puzzled an annoyed Rock. "It was far from flattering. He was not such a cad that he would impose himself upon a girl who disliked him on first sight. But Rock could not believe that could be wholly true. What had he done to deserve that?"

(Copyright, Zane Grey)

"I want to talk to you," Thiry unexpectedly tells Rock Monday. Her first question amazes him.

STOCK MARKET DRIFTS ALONG ON EVEN KEEL

Attention of Wall Street
Diverted from Price
Levels by Holidays

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York.—(P)—Securities market drifted on a fairly even keel today, while holiday preparations diverted much of Wall Street's attention from price levels.

The report of the Young plan advisory committee was generally regarded with satisfaction in banking quarters, but it was regarded as a step of too preliminary a nature to have notable effect upon security markets.

Fluctuations in share prices were confined to extraordinarily narrow limits. The market was fairly firm for a time in the morning, but developed an easterly tone after midday. Early gains of a point or so in such issues as U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, American Tobacco B, New York Central and others were largely lost, and a few issues registered small fractional losses. Westinghouse Electric was under some pressure, and sold off about a point.

Prominent bankers who informally discussed the Young plan committee's report were generally of the opinion that it would provide the groundwork for a new and workable settlement of the international debt problem, and felt that no time would be lost in convening an international conference to act upon the matter. Removal of the element of uncertainty as to what is to be done, they felt, would greatly brighten the prospect of economic recovery.

The Bank of England's weekly statement attracted attention in that it showed a substantial drop in the ratio of reserves to liabilities. Reserves decline to 20.9 per cent, a new low for recent years, from 22.6 per cent a week previously. Reserves, however, have been much better maintained than they were during the post war deflation.

The financial markets generally were permitted to drift, as traders had no heart for ambitious maneuvers in advance of a three-day shutdown. The holiday period is usually one of comparative quiet in the security markets.

The weekly mercantile reviews provided a little cheer in their descriptions of the volume of holiday trade. Breadstuffs said the aggregate appeared to have surpassed expectations. While dollar value is well over a year ago, more than half of 55 cities reported a tonnage movement equal to or in excess of last year.

TRADE ON CURB MART IS ROUTINE AFFAIR

Facing Three Day Vacation
Traders Refuse to Assume Position

New York.—(P)—Transactions on the Curb market were of a routine nature today.

Facing a three day vacation, traders were reluctant to assume a position and many left the financial district early. The market had a steady to firm tone on the basis of such dealings as took place, but the list of issues traded was small and the turnover diminished. The day before Christmas is usually the duller of the year.

Gas stocks were active in the utility group. American Gas and Electric improved about a point but Electric Bond and Share was almost stationary. Associated Gas "A" dipped to within a small fraction of the year's low, although offerings were light.

Oils suffered from neglect and variations from the Wednesday close were nominal. Trading in specialties and industrials was colorless. Great Atlantic and Pacific moved higher.

PRICES HIGHER ON LIVESTOCK MARKET

Buyers Make Short Shift of Limited Preholiday Supplies

Chicago.—(P)—Buyers made short shift of the limited preholiday supply of 20,000 hogs, sending prices a flat 25c higher by their impetuous action. Packers received 12,000 direct and with no more markets this week all interests competed for the scant supply of butchers and lights, best ones selling at $4.60, high watermark for almost four weeks.

Twelve markets reported only 55,900 hogs against 120,000 a week ago and the total for four days is the lightest of the entire season. Live stock markets will be closed on Friday and Saturday, so that today's strength was regarded somewhat in the nature of propaganda for an overwhelming run on Monday.

Odd cars of cattle were billed straight to packing plants, but fewer than 100 head were checked into the yards in this manner. Lacking offerings of quality the trade attracted buyers who were able to substitute and with the general sentiment favoring a cleanup of fresh and stable supplies, the market developed fairly brisk action at firm price levels.

Holders of sheep and lambs exploited the situation in the live nuton trade to the cost of packers. A reduction of 22,000 in receipts here this week definitely turned the tide in favor of improved prices and the closing session this week four buyers compelled to restore more of the recent price declines.

WINDY CITY WON RESPECTABILITY WITH CONVENTION

Possibility Is Strong That Chicago Also Will Get
Democratic Meeting

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Chicago got more out of the Republican National committee here than the next Republican national convention. She seemed to get something resembling a certificate of respectability.

Awarding her the convention promptly and by an overwhelming vote, the men and women of the committee demonstrated plainly enough that they harbored no fears of pineapples or machine guns. Representatives of other contending cities made some mean comments on this phase of the fame of the metropolis which was once internationally known as the home of Al Capone.

Now there seems some possibility that Chicago may get the Democratic convention as well. There is no rule against having both major parties meet in the same town and when the Democrats followed the Republicans to Chicago in 1884 they nominated Grover Cleveland and won their first election victory since before the Civil War.

Few men are held in higher, wider esteem by politicians and business men than Edward N. Hurley, the citizens' committee chairman who put Chicago over with the Republicans. Colonel Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who accompanied him, is head of the city's famous "Secret Six" and is widely credited with causing the arrest and trial of Capone. Mayor Tony Cermak who was also here, is another Chicagoan who has done much toward restoring his city's former prestige. He is even said to have cleaned up the police force which he inherited from Big Bill Thompson.

Randolph said, in response to wisecracks from supporters of Atlantic City, that Chicago no longer had a bad reputation and that a visitor there was as safe as he would be anywhere in the country.

Besides its superior facilities and obvious geographical advantage, Chicago is as fine a place for a political convention as might be desired by any of those who believe that a convention helps a party carry the state where it is held. That factor of "political location" is never held so important that the matter of the money offer doesn't come first, of course. It probably isn't very significant that the Republicans have in the last four presidential elections carried the states in which their conventions were held. Or that the Democrats, who carried Maryland in 1912 and Missouri in 1916 after holding conventions in Baltimore and St. Louis, have not since carried the states where their conventions were held.

Nevertheless, the 1932 election is likely to be so close that no such factor, involving the electoral vote of a very large state, is being ignored. Following the landslide victory of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis in 1930 and the more recent election of Cermak in Chicago, the Republicans are in the position of trying desperately to hold Illinois for Hoover, whereas the Democrats are confident that they can capture this normally Republican state. That's one reason why no one will be greatly surprised if the Democrats also succumb to Hurley's effective salesmanship.

Some of the Democratic leaders want the party to have its convention before the Republicans meet, instead of after, as usual. But there is as yet no probability that it will. Heretofore it has been considered good strategy to wait for the Republicans on the theory that they and their platform then represented a better target. Now it is argued that the Hoover administration record presents an excellent target that it would be a smart trick to "get the jump" on the G. O. P., start first into action and make the Republican convention seem anti-climatic. The Republicans will convene June 14th, however, and it is doubtful whether Congress will adjourn soon enough to give the Democrats the time they would need.

They Discussed International Loans

BRIDGE COST BILL HAS ASSEMBLY O. K. Reduces Counties' Share of Cost of Building Special Bridges

Madison —(P)—As its last act before adjourning for the holidays, the assembly Wednesday approved a bill reducing the counties' share of the cost of building special bridges.

The measure was introduced by Sen. John E. Cashman, Denmark, in accordance with a provision in the governor's call for the special session and was sponsored in the belief that it will result in more bridge building and consequent increase in employment.

Under the terms of the bill, the counties' share of the $900,000 set aside annually for special bridges is reduced from $100,000 to $40,000. The measure provides that the $40,000 shall be the maximum for any county and for the poorer counties the cost will equal one-fifth of 1 per cent of the assessed valuation.

Because the senate favored a limit of one-eighth of 1 per cent of the assessed valuation the assembly's amendment must be approved in the upper house before the bill can be sent to the governor. The special bridges to which the bill refers are bridges more than 300 feet in length on trunk highways or on streets of cities and villages of the fourth class.

The assembly committee on state affairs reported the Carow bill for assembly and senatorial reapportionment and the Tremain bill for congressional reapportionment to the floor for passage and recommended indefinite postponement for the Tews bill on assembly and senatorial redistricting.

The Carow bill retains the present representation in both the assembly and senate while the Tremain bill cuts the congressional districts from 11 to 10 and puts Congressman Gerald Boileau, Wausau and James Frear, Hudson, in the same district. The Tews bill seeks to change the representation of various counties, boosting that of Milwaukee in the assembly from 20 to 24.

The assembly tabled a $6,000,000 emergency unemployment relief measure introduced by Assemblyman Allen Busby, Milwaukee.

ACTION DELAYED ON RESERVOIR MEASURE

Senate Waits Until Next Week in Wisconsin Valley
Improvement Co. Case

Madison —(P)—The senate Wednesday delayed action until next week on the Lang bill to repeal the 1931 law which authorized the Wisconsin Valley Improvement company to create a new water power reservoir in north central Wisconsin. The repealer has been passed by the assembly.

The measure was put over following an announcement by Senator J. H. Carroll of Gladen, that he expects to have a conference in Wisconsin Rapids next Monday and probably will offer an amendment. He did not reveal the nature of the amendment.

Senator Walter J. Rush of Neillsville, was author of the law permitting the company to build the reservoir. He and Assemblyman Ben Lang of Marshfield, are now asking its repeal on the ground that the company should have presented to the legislature detailed maps showing the area to be flooded.

Delegations of farmers living around Wisconsin Rapids, Wausau, Marshfield and Stevens Point contend they will not receive a fair price for their lands from the company and that unwholesome conditions will result during summer dry spells from the receding of waters if the reservoir is created. They charged that the company is entitled to flood an acreage equal to one-eighth of the state.

Rush asked that the law be repealed so that the company can come back to the legislature with new plans which the land-owners will have an opportunity to study.

Senator Harry E. Daggett of Milwaukee, chairman of the corporations and taxation committee, charged ed that the agitation for repeal of the law "appears to be a case of blackmail."

"I don't think the farmers will get any more for their land," he said. "The lawyers may, but not the farmers."

CAN'T FREE PERSONS HELD UNDER DRY LAW

Madison —(P)—The state legislature has no constitutional right to release prisoners jailed for violation of the Volstead act even though conviction was obtained in the state courts, the attorney general ruled.

The ruling was made at the request of Assemblyman Allen Busby, Milwaukee, who proposed that prisoners in the Milwaukee House of Correction be released so they may support their families.

NO NEW CASES OF "RABBIT DISEASE"

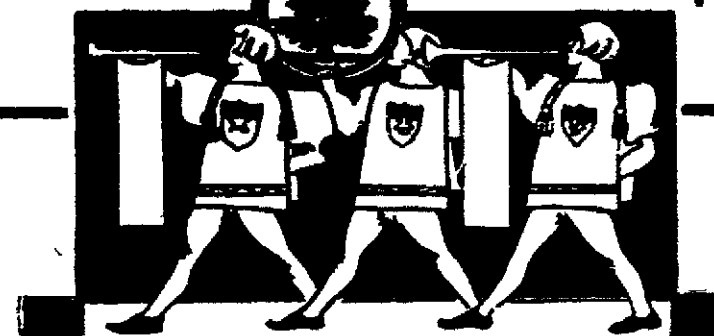

Madison —(P)—Apparently Wisconsin's encounter with poliomyelitis in 1931 ended during the first week in December, the bureau of communicable diseases of the state board of health said Tuesday.

Not a case has been reported in the state since the first week of the month, the bureau said. Incidence of poliomyelitis since Jan. 1 stands at 724 cases.

WONT BE JAILED

Anderson, Ind.—Police did not accept the offer of Raymond Riggs, 35, to go to jail after his automobile had hit a 12-year-old boy and knocked him from his bicycle and, 30 minutes later, hit a 16-year-old boy, who suffered concussion of the brain. Riggs' record has shown him to be a careful driver.
